'CALL TO ARMS' IN BORDER CITY

Americans in El Paso Sign Pledge to Invade Mexico to Avenge Massacre by Villa's Bandits

By JOHN W. ROBERTS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

El Paso, Jan. 14.—A state of martial daw exists here. Soldiers from Fort Bliss, under command of General Pershing, are patrolling the streets to prevent anti-Mexican riots.

At no time since news was received here of the slaughter of seventeen Americans and one Canadian near Santa Ysabel has feeling run so high as today.

A flame of wrath is sweeping the border. A secret call to arms has been issued for an invasion of Mexico by Americans next month.

The following is the "Call to Arms":

> In the name of justice and humanity the time has come for us to act and vindicate the horrible massacre of our citizens in Mexico.
> We must demonstrate to other nations that red American blood still runs in our veins. We must free ourselves from the shackles of an administration that still adheres to its policy of sending notes of retaliation for outrages committed against our citizens.
> Each man who signs this call to arms pledges his word of honor to stand by the decision of the majority of the men involved. Each must furnish his own horse, rifle and outfit, and be ready to invade Mexico on six hours' notice.
> No action will be taken before February 1, if, by that time, the Washington government shall not have taken any steps to re-establish our honor as proud American citizens.
> And if the Mexicans responsible for the massacre of Americans shall not have been punished in a fitting manner for their horrible deed, we, the undersigned, hereby agree to invade Mexican territory and not return to this country until we have run down every man who took a hand in the tragedy last Monday.

More than fifty Mexicans, most of them believed to be adherents of Francisco Villa, have been arrested.

Despite the non-intervention attitude of the Washington administration, a secret movement has been launched here for the organization of an expedition to invade Mexico.

Thoroughly aroused over the continued killing of Americans by Mexican bandits, a number of Americans living on the border have declared they will take affairs into their own hands.

Will Punish Murderers, Says Gen. Carranza

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 14.—General Venustiano Carranza, head of the de facto government of Mexico, today pledged that the murders of the seventeen Americans near Chihuahua will be brought to justice. He wired Elisso Arredondo, his ambassador here, to make this announcement to the press. Following is the text of his message:

> The attack on the passenger train near Chihuahua was made by the only remaining band of outlaws in that region. This band is being actively pursued by troops to insure its capture, when condign punishment, which their crime deserves, will be meted out to every participant.
> Troops of the Constitutionalist government have been instructed to establish a complete patrol of the entire railway from end to end in order to forefend against similar outrages. You will make this declaration to the press of the United States

RAILWAY MEN HINT ARMY BILL STRIKE

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 14.—The National Railway Men's Union, composed of employes of all the railroad systems in the United Kingdom, decided today to oppose conscription. The Union hinted at a national strike if the military service bill is put into effect.

REPORT KAISER NOW IN GOOD HEALTH.

Berlin, via London, Jan. 14.—Emperor William again is in good health. He no longer remains in his apartment, but takes his usual walks in Potsdam in pleasant weather.

The boil on the Emperor's neck has so far healed that he is again wearing his uniform, but he leaves the high collar open to prevent pressure on the tender spot.

An official who conversed with the Emperor Wednesday and Thursday said he was in exceptionally good spirits, and that there was absolutely nothing to justify the pessimistic reports about him printed abroad.

London, Jan. 14.—Although repeated rumors have been circulated again declaring that the illness of Kaiser Wilhelm is so serious as to cause alarm, there seems to be no basis for them, and the assurance that the Emperor is suffering merely from a "boil" was reiterated in the Berlin Tageblatt today.

The Tageblatt says this "does not prevent the Kaiser's walking out."

This news in the Tageblatt is the only direct information concerning the Kaiser's illness. But significance is attached to the report that the Crown Prince has been summoned to Berlin to discuss important matters in the event of the Emperor's illness being prolonged.

According to a Rome dispatch Queen Sophia of Greece, a sister of the Kaiser, has been summoned to his bedside and she will leave Athens at once.

BURGLARS' HAUL NEAR POLICE STATION

Burglars entered the store of the British-American Tailoring Company at No. 205 Washington street, within a stone's throw of Court square police station, early today and secured $500 worth of finished garments. The police think the burglars must have backed a light wagon into an alley which runs back from Washington street by one side of the store and taken the goods out through a side door.

From midnight on, that section of Washington street, at the lower end of Newspaper row, is filled with newspaper delivery teams. The police figure that the burglars took advantage of the delivery traffic to slip their wagon into the alley and make their haul.

The store was entered through a rear window. The safe, containing $200, was not touched. The burglars left an old overcoat and sack coat behind.

STEAMER SUNK, SEVEN IN CREW PICKED UP

Gloucester, Jan. 14.—The fishing steamer Enterprise was rammed by an unidentified fishing schooner early today, seven miles southeast of Eastern Point, and Captain Richard Marchant and six men of the steamer were rescued after they had put out in their dories.

The Enterprise sank in Gloucester Harbor after being towed shorewards by a rescue ship, the steamer Geisha.

What happened to the schooner and its crew is unknown. This craft disappeared in the darkness, but fishing men here thought she had not been seriously damaged.

The Enterprise was on its way to the fishing grounds. The sailing craft, supposed to have been coming out from Boston, struck the starboard bow of the steamer, starting the planking for ten feet along the side

WITNESS HEARD SUSPECT ACCUSE DOCTOR'S WIDOW

Providence, Jan. 14.—The story of how Cecil Victor Brown declared that he had shot and killed Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, while his cousin, Henry Spellman, shot the doctor's secretary, Miss Emily Burger, because Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, the doctor's wife, had offered $5,000 for the job, was told in the Mohr murder trial today.

The testimony was given by Police Commissioner Benjamin P. Moulton, who was present in the office of Chief Inspector William F. O'Neil when the alleged confessions were made.

"The three of them, Brown, Healis and Spellman," the witness testified, "talked freely. Brown said he was to get $2,000 for killing the doctor, Spellman was to get $1,000 for shooting Miss Burger, and Healis, the chauffeur, was to get $2,000 for stopping the car. Brown stated he was to receive an extra $500 when Mrs. Mohr collected her insurance money, and that he planned to open a garage."

Commissioner Moulton also testified that Brown gave a demonstration of how the shooting was done, and declared that Mrs. Mohr had worried them for three months to do the job. He testified that Brown stated Mrs. Mohr sent him to Boston to purchase a second-hand revolver, and that she gave him $100 toward the purchase of a motorcycle.

"Brown stated that it was intended to do the shooting a few nights previous on the Barrington road," said the witness, "but owing to other circumstances preventing, the original plan fell through.

"Brown said that neither of them wanted to commit the murder, but that Mrs. Mohr had been keeping at them constantly for three months before they finally agreed.

"Brown stated that after the first attempt fell through Mrs. Mohr called them to her house and wanted to know if they had gone back on her. Brown said he assured her that they had not and that the trick would be pulled within a few nights."

This testimony was a severe blow to the defence as it corroborated that of Chief O'Neil given yesterday. Other police officers who heard the alleged statements were on hand to substantiate this testimony.

Witness Quotes Brown That Mrs. Mohr Urged Death Plot for Three Months

Police Commissioner Moulton Says Spellman Told of Being Hired for Deed.

Eight suffragists visited Sheriff Andrew J Wilcox today and requested seats. The request was complied with, and chairs were placed for them in the court room.

MRS. MOHR SMILES.

Mrs. Mohr appeared in court at 9.25 today. She was alone. She sat in her regular seat. A minute later she was joined by A. D. Mohr, her brother-in-law, who lives at McEwensville, Pa. He is here to testify in Mrs. Mohr's behalf. He is staying at Mrs. Mohr's home with his sister, Mrs. Ellen Hogan, who will also be a witness for the defence.

Mr. Mohr enthered into animated conversation with Mrs. Mohr. He is said to look very much like Dr. Mohr. After five minutes they ceased talking and sat erect. Mrs. Mohr called his attention to the sketch artists nearby.

Something Mrs. Mohr said caused Mr Mohr to smile. The artists were evidently making sketches of Mrs Mohr. Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, of counsel for Mrs. Mohr, appeared and was greeted by Mrs. Mohr. Mr. Mohr then left the court room.

Attorney William H. Lewis, counsel for Brown, and Attorney Edwards, representing Spellman, entered the courtroom and conferred with their clients.

Judge Stearns was on the bench and Court Crier Newcomb opened court. Clerk Root polled the jury. Foreman Clark of the jury for the first time appeared with a white shirt and collar and black tie. Heretofore he has worn a workingman's shirt, with collar attached.

Other members of the jury were spruced up today, with white shirts and collars.

The courtroom was crowded. The front row back of the press table was labeled "Reserved." It will be used for witnesses.

Attorney Phillips—Is Mr. Lewis in the room?

Attorney Edwards—Yes, sir! Yes, sir!

But Mr. Lewis had left the room.

Attorney Phillips called Police Commissioner Moulton to the stand.

Q—What is your name? A.—Benjamin P. Moulton.

Q.—You are police commissioner of Providence? A.—Yes.

Q.—When were you appointed? A.—A year ago last April.

HOW BROWN "CONFESSED."

THE "confession" of Cecil Victor Brown, chauffeur for Dr. Mohr, although barred as a confession, was presented to the jury as "testimony" of Chief Inspector O'Neil.

Chief O'Neil said, in this "testimony":

"Brown said that on the morning of August 30, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Mrs. Mohr sent for him and told him to prepare to kill Dr. Mohr, because she could not stand it any longer.

"Brown said: 'I did not want to do it.' He said Mrs. Mohr said: 'There is something in it for you. Don't be afraid, as I stand in with all the detectives, the chief down in Newport, and the judges in Providence.' Brown said she told him there was nothing to be afraid of.

"He said she told him she would spend her last dollar to get George out of the trouble and to tell him to come over and talk with her. He said she told him it would blow over in a few days. He said, 'She said she would pay me $2,000, and also pay George $2,000.' "

Q.—Now, Mr. Moulton, on the evening of August 31 of last year were you in the office of Chief O'Neil in this city? A.—I was.

Q.—What time did you get there? A.—About 11 o'clock.

Q.—Were you there when Brown was brought in? A.—I was.

Q.—Around what time was Brown brought into Chief O'Neil's office? A.—About midnight.

Q.—About what time did you say? A.—About midnight.

Q.—What was the date? A.—It was between midnight and the morning of September 1—a little after midnight.

Q.—That was when with reference to the shooting? A.—The day after.

Q.—When Brown was brought in, will you please tell the court and the jury what he had to say to Chief O'Neil in answer to questions? A.—Brown denied all knowledge of the affair. He was questioned closely on the whole proposition. He denied everything. He said he had nothing to do with the affair. He said he could prove where he was that night.

Q.—Where did he say he was? A.—He said he was at Riverside.

Q.—What was he doing there, did he say? A.—He said he went there to look up some lady and that he stopped at a house—I think he said Miss Doherty's house—to inquire if she knew where a family by the name of Chin lived. He said they could prove where he was, and that they would prove that he was calling on them that night.

Q.—Did Chief O'Neil do anything in regard to that to find about his visit there? A.—Chief O'Neil, he——

Attorney Lewis jumped to his feet and shouted: "No! No!"

Judge Stearns—I suppose the State means to show that Chief O'Neil sent somebody to find out if it was so. I will permit the question if it is framed differently.

OBJECTS TO QUESTION.

Q.—What did he do—I mean Chief O'Neil? A.—He sent two inspectors to find out if Brown's statements were true.

Attorney Lewis again objected as to the admissibility of the question and the answer.

Commissioner Moulton substantiated the testimony given by Chief William F. O'Neil yesterday relative to the confession of Brown, Healis and Spellman. The commissioner was emphatic in all of his answers, and on several occasions insisted on answering questions after the defence had put in an objection.

Commissioner Moulton, who is one of the three police commissioners of Providence, had Attorneys Fitzgerald and Lewis jumping to their feet every few moments.

The following questions and answers were given by Commissioner Moulton on examination by Assistant Attorney General Phillips:

Q.—You say you were present when Brown was brought into police headquarters? A.—Yes.

Q.—Does that also apply to Spellman? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did Spellman say when Chief O'Neil asked him about the crime? A.—He denied all knowledge of it, the same as Brown did at first.

HEALIS TAKEN IN.

Q.—What happened then? A.—Chief O'Neil brought Healis in and confronted Spellman with him. The chief told Spellman that Healis had told all and that it was up to him to confess.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Spellman admitted that he shot Miss Burger and that Brown shot the doctor. He said he was hired by Mrs. Mohr to do so.

Q.—Was there anything else said in regard to the confession of the three negroes? A.—Yes. The three of them—Brown, Healis and Spellman—talked freely relative to the whole affair. Spellman was not as talkative as Brown, but he chimed in occasionally. Brown said that Mrs. Mohr had furnished him with $100 for the purchase of a motorcycle several months before the murder. He also said that Mrs. Mohr sent him to Boston to get a revolver. He said he bought a .38 in a second-hand store. Brown then stated that it was the intent to do the shooting a few nights previous on the Barrington road, but owing to some other circumstances the original plan fell through. Brown said that neither of them wanted to commit the murder, but that Mrs. Mohr had been keeping at them constantly for three months before they finally agreed.

Q.—What else happened in regard to that confession? A.—Brown was asked how far he was from the doctor when he shot him. Brown stood up on a chair and used Chief O'Neil's desk for the automobile and gave us a demonstration. I should say the distance that he used at that time was possibly ten feet. At this point Spellman said that he shot Miss Burger. The three negroes were asked if there was any particular arrangement relative to the way they were to conduct the shooting. Brown replied that it was planned that he was to shoot the doctor, and that Spellman was to shoot the girl. They said they carried out the plan in that fashion.

Q.—Anything else said on the night by any one of the three negroes. A.—Brown stated that after the first attempt fell through Mrs. Mohr called them to her house and wanted to know if they had gone back on her. Brown said he assured her that they had not and that the trick would be pulled within a few nights.

TELLS OF MONEY.

Q.—Did they say what they were going to get for this work? A.—Brown said he was to get $2,000 for killing the doctor, Spellman was to get $1,000 for shooting Miss Burger, and Healis was to get $2,000 for stopping the car. Brown stated he was to receive an extra $500 when Mrs. Mohr collected her insurance money and that he planned to open a garage.

Q.—Was that all that was said? A.—No, Brown stated that Mrs. Mohr had assured them all that no possible harm could come to them. Brown said that she told them not to worry about the Newport police or detectives or the Providence judges, as she stood in with them all.

Q.—What was said by Brown and Spellman in the presence of Mrs. Mohr after she was arrested, and what did she say?

Attorney Fitzgerald, counsel for Mrs. Mohr, asked the court to enforce the ruling of yesterday in refusing to have any alleged conversation on Mrs. Mohr's part admitted to the record. The court sustained its ruling and the question was withdrawn.

Yesterday Chief O'Neil stated that the confession which he claimed was made by the three negroes was never finished because Mrs. Mohr entered the room at that time and interrupted it. Today Assistant Attorney-General Phillips asked Commissioner Moulton if he was in the room while Chief O'Neil was writing this alleged confession, and, if so, who interrupted him in completing it.

Commissioner Moulton lost his memory at this point and stated that to the best of his memory Chief O'Neil was not interrupted.

Attorney Lewis chuckled loudly as Attorney Phillips tried vainly to get the Commissioner's memory up to the sticking point.

ASKED ABOUT CARD.

Attorney Fitzgerald then began to cross-examine the police commissioner.

Q.—Are your hours from eleven at night until five in the morning? A.—No.

Q.—Have you any office hours as police commissioner? A.—No.

Q.—Isn't it a singular thing that you spent the entire night at police headquarters during the alleged confession of these three negroes? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Is it a part of your duties to be there nights? A.—No.

Q.—Do you think you had any right there during these arrests and convictions? A.—I most certainly do.

Q.—Did you do any of the talking yourself? A.—Some of it.

Q.—Didn't you begin to question the negroes along the line hat you wanted to work out for your own satisfaction, namely, implicating Mrs. Mohr? A.—I did not.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you were in possession of the letter card that Mrs. Mohr wrote to Emily G. Burger while you were talking to the negroes? A.—It is not.

Q.—When did you first see that letter card? A.—I saw it at the same time Mrs. Mohr saw it.

Q.—Do you mean to tell me that you were in the Chief's room for several hours, talking over the case with him, and you didn't see that card until Mrs. Mohr saw it? A.—That's exactly what happened.

Continuing his cross-examination, Attorney Fitzgerald asked Police Commissioner Moulton if it was not a fact that he had followed the progress of the trial in the newspapers. Moulton admitted he had, in part.

Q.—Can you positively tell this jury that what you have said here is not what has been impressed upon you by what you have read in the newspapers? A.—I have told you what I know.

Commissioner Moulton was then questioned at length about the accuracy of his testimony and he said it was given because of his knowledge of the case.

Q.—You asked Mrs. Mohr some questions that night when she was in

How Soldiers Keep Strong

Preparedness against sickness is the big, important thing to fighting soldiers. A sick soldier cannot work with vigor any more than you can work with energy when you are weak, tired, almost sick.

One efficient warring government is giving each soldier a vial of cod liver oil every day because far-reaching experiments show how wonderfully it increases the calories of human energy and gives them strength to prevent winter sickness. Is this not convincing proof that you need it at this season to enliven your blood to prevent sickness?

Cod liver oil is scarce and high-priced this season and many inferior grades may be offered. But remember that which guarantees pure cod liver oil—free from alcohol and drugs.

If you are subject to colds, throat or lung troubles; if you are easily tired, run-down or have thin blood, you should take Scott's Emulsion at once. If your children are backward in growth, frail or anæmic, nothing will do them so much good as Scott's Emulsion, and for girls and women in home or business it is nature's great strength-builder.

Scott's is not a "secret" medicine. It is a rich blood-food and a pure tonic; it contains nothing harmful and is pleasant to take. It is prescribed by physicians and liberally used in hospitals and private schools.

the station, didn't you? A.—I never addressed Mrs. Mohr that night. I never talked to Mrs. Mohr.

OUT OF CURIOSITY.

Q.—Didn't you ask Mrs. Mohr what she meant by that writing on the card about Miss Burger? A.—I did not.

Q.—What were you waiting around police headquarters for—were you there in an official capacity?

Commissioner Moulton gave a number of explanations as to why he was at police headquarters, but wound up by saying he was there out of curiosity more than anything else.

Attorney Fitzgerald subjected the commissioner to a gruelling, rapid-fire examination about the part he took in the quizzing of Brown.

Q.—I am asking you now why it was that if this man, Brown, said he had nothing to do with the case—why did you stay there? A.—I stayed there because I wanted to hear a report from the inspectors who had been sent by Chief O'Neil to Riverside.

Q.—Why did you stay there after you heard the reports of the police inspectors on their return from Riverside? A.—Because Chief O'Neil had decided to call up Chief Robbins of Barrington to get Healis up to Providence.

Q.—What time was that request made of Chief Robbins? A.—Chief O'Neil called up the Barrington police between 1:30 and 2:30. He finally got in touch with Chief Robbins.

Q.—How are you sure about the time? A.—That was my guess.

Q.—Then what was the reason for being interested in Mr. Healis? A.—To get Healis.

Q.—Did you read the newspaper accounts of this trial last night? A.—No.

Q.—Did you read the newspaper accounts today? A.—Partly.

Q.—Where was Brown kept after twelve o'clock that night when he was brought to police headquarters? A.—He was kept outside in the detention room, where prisoners are kept.

"KNEW THEIR BUSINESS."

Q.—Is there a record kept of persons confined in the detention room A.—Yes.

Commissioner Moulton then described police headquarters.

Q.—Is there any cell where a person is kept for the purpose of being interviewed" A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Was it on your recommendation that Mrs. Mohr was arrested. A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did any inspectors ask you if they would hold Mrs. Mohr? A.—No, they knew their business.

Q.—You are pretty smart on that, aren't you? A.—Yes.

The witness was then questioned as to the time he arrived at Chief O'Neil's office. He was sure it was eleven o'clock.

Q.—And you went there out of curiosity. A.—Yes.

Q.—And you remained there out of curiosity from eleven p. m. until eight a. m.? A.—Yes.

Attorney Lewis, counsel for Brown, then cross-examined Commissioner Moulton.

Q.—Now, Mr. Moulton, what did you say your official connection with this case was? A.—As a witness.

Q.—Then you are here in no other capacity? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Then it makes no difference to you one way or the other, does it, Mr. Moulton? A.—No.

Witness started to explain further, but Attorney Lewis shut him off by snapping. "Just answer my questions, yes or nor. If you want to make any comment, you may do so later."

Q.—I understand you to say you were interested as a witness? A.—As a witness.

Q.—And you said a little while ago that the facts you have testified to are your own. A.—To the best of my knowledge and belief, yes.

Q.—Did you hear all that was said in your presence and in the presence of Chief O'Neil? A.—In my presence.

Q.—Now, I believe you said the reason you didn't read the newspapers was that half of the reports were not accurate?

Attorney General Rice objected.

Judge Stearns: "Next question!"

Q.—Didn't you say the newspapers were half wrong with the reports of this trial?

RAISES OBJECTION.

Attorney General Rice again objected.

Judge Stearns—I will allow the question.

Commissioner Moulton remarked that what he said was evidence that was material.

Attorney Lewis asked the witness several questions about the meaning of the word "material," and followed with this question:

Q.—Then your are testifying here to things that are material in behalf of the State? A.—Yes.

Attorney-General Rice objected to the line of questioning, but was overruled by Judge Stearns.

Q.—Didn't you say that the newspaper reports were wrong? A.—Yes.

Q.—How do you know the reports were half wrong—were you here?

Commissioner Moulton hesitated, rubbed his face with his hands and was apparently discomfited by the question. He finally answered:

"From what people have testified to—that is, from knowing what I do about the case."

Q.—Then you have read the newspapers? A.—Yes.

Attorney Lewis then pointed his finger at Commissioner Moulton and demanded sharply:

"Why did you shake your head or bow it to the Attorney-General here?"

Attorney-General Rice: "I object."

Judge Stearns: "The objection is sustained."

Q.—You and the chief see each other quite frequently, don't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have talked the case over with him, haven't you? A.—We discussed the case.

Q.—How many times have you talked the case over with him? A.—We have talked about the case. I couldn't say as to how many times.

Q.—Would you say it was a dozen times? A.—Probably more.

Attorney Lewis then asked a long question, which the witness said he did not understand. While Attorney Lewis and the witness were arguing over the nature of the question, Attorney General Rice objected.

Attorney Lewis: "Are you objecting to his question or mine?"

There was more laughter in the court room.

Q.—Have you ever gone over your testimony with the Chief as to what you were going to say? A.—No, sir.

INSISTS ON STORY.

Q.—Have you talked with the Attorney-General about the case? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have talked with him a great many times, haven't you? A.—Twice.

Q.—When was the last time. A.—This morning.

Q.—Talk this over with anybody else? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—You got there what time that night? A.—Eleven o'clock.

Q.—And you heard there was going to be something doing at the station and you decided to stick around? A.—I think so.

Q.—Is what you said there the truth? A.—It's the truth.

Q.—It's the truth, you say. A.—Yes.

Commissioner Moulton was then questioned as to what he did at the station that night.

Q.—You took a little hand in the affair while you were there, didn't you? A.—Very little.

Q.—How many questions did you ask Mr. Brown?

Answer was inaudible.

Q.—You said he was a "d—— liar," and you also said "put him in a cell," didn't you? A.—Did I?

Attorney Lewis again walked to the witness stand and gazed into the eyes of the witness and then said in a loud voice:

"Yes!"

Moulton was next questioned about his knowledge of police inspectors being sent to Riverside to question Brown.

Q.—You found out at least one thing Brown said was true, didn't you, which was that Brown was at Riverside?

Q.—You heard what the officers said? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now what happened with reference to Brown from twelve o'clock when he was brought in until eight o'clock the next morning? A.—Why, he was in the chief's office and then he was taken from there to a cell.

SPELLMAN LOCATED.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Nothing, only the chief and I went out and saw him in the cell when the officers came back from Riverside.

Attorney Lewis then asked Moulton if Brown was asked many questions as to how the tear came to be in his trousers. Moulton could not remember.

Q.—Did you go with the officers to find Spellman? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was that out of curiosity? A.—No.

Q.—Then how did you come to go? A.—The police auto broke down that morning and I used mine.

Q.—Did you do that out of curiosity? A.—No.

Q.—Then at that time you had some interest in the case, didn't you? A.—Not that I was aware of.

Q.—What was that interest you had in the case? A.—Nothing I know of.

Q.—Where did you find Spellman? A.—I didn't find him.

Q.—Who found him? A.—Captain Monahan and Inspector Ahearn. I stopped my machine and they went into a house and later I saw Inspector Ahearn. Then Captain Monahan came down and asked if I wanted to go upstairs.

Q.—Did you go up stairs? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you find Spellman in bed? A.—No, he was partly dresed.

Q.—Did he look as if he was going to get away? He didn't have a chance.

Q.—Why did you say he didn't have a chance? A.—I mean by that that owing to the lateness of the hour that all the exits of police headquarters were barred.

Q.—Who was in the Chief's room when Brown was examined? A.—Chief O'Neil, Captain Monahan, Inspector Ahearn and myself.

Q.—You all took a hand in the third degree method, did you not? A.—I don't know what the question implies.

Q.—Well, you were not talking like ladies at a tea party, were you? A.—No, it was not a tea party by any means.

Q.—What did Chief O'Neil say to Brown? A.—I can't remember exactly.

TILTS WITH ATTORNEY.

Q.—You mean to say that you can't tell me what O'Neil said, but that you can tell me in the most minute detail what Brown and Spellman said?

Attorney-General Rice objected on the ground that the witness had not been asked to tell exactly what Chief O'Neil had said, and consequently no argument could be made until he was given an opportunity to do so. The court sustained theobjection.

Q.—Well. I will begin all over again.

Commissioner Moulton here interruptde by asking Lwis several questions.

Attorney Lewis: "We are getting mixed up on this case because the witness is asking more questions than the counsel."

Commissioner Moulton: "If you would ask clear-cut questions, I would be only too pleased to give you clear cut answers."

Q.—While you were present, did anyone lay their hand on Brown? A.—No.

Q.—Did anyone handle him roughly in the detention cell? A.—I wasn't there.

Q.—Don't you remember that you yourself said, "He's lying! Put him back in the cell," and didn't Chief O'Neil grab Brown roughly by the arm and throw him back into the cell?

Attorney-General Rice again objected, on the ground that Chief O'Neil had already denied this statement and that consquently its admissibility should be barred on the previous ruling of the court. Judge Stearns sustained the objection.

Q.—Didn't you make certain accusations against Brown while you were asking him questions? A.—What do you mean?

Q.—Didn't Chief O'Neil say to Braown, "ou shot Dr. Mohr!" A.—No, I don't think so.

Q.—Didn't Chief O'Neil ask him anything about Mrs. Mohr? A.—No, he did not.

Q.—Did the Chief raise his voice in any way and question Brown vigorously? A.—I don't know what you mean by the word "vigorously" and consequently cannot answer this question. If you mean to say that Brown was questioned properly, I will answer "yes."

DENIES ROUGH TREATMENT.

Q.—What time did you leave the Chief's office to go and get Spellman?

A.—I drove Captain monahan and Inspector Ahearn up to Spellman's house in my car about five o'clock that morning.

Q.—How long were you gone? A.—About three-quarters of an hour.

Police Chief Under Cross-Fire All Day

Chief O'Neil was the mark for the counsel for the defendants for nearly the entire day.

Attorneys Fitzgerald for Mrs. Mohr and Lewis for Brown and Spellman, kept at him the whole afternoon, and his cross-examination at their hands had just finished when the hour for adjournment was reached.

The efforts of the defence were centred on the various confessions in the case and the manner in which they were obtained. The testimony, with Attorney Lewis conducting the cross-examination, was as follows:

Q.—You say that Brown, Healis and Spellman agreed to the alleged confession? A.—I do.

Q.—And you say that you did not force them, or work the third degree?

Attorney General Rice objected to the words, "third degree," but was overruled.

Q.—How many confessions have you obtained since you have been a policeman? A.—I don't know.

Q.—You don't know how many? A.—I do not.

Attorney-General Rice: "I object to this line of questioning. If it continues it will be necessary to bring in evidence on each confession and this case will never end. I would like to have the third degree expression stricken from the minutes. It is a question that will involve much evidence not connected with this case.

Judge Stearns: "The question of third degree will not enter at this time."

Attorney Lewis continued:

Q.—Chief, do you know what "third degree" means?

Both Attorneys Rice and Phillips objected.

Judge Stearns: "This is all argumentative and I rule against it."

Attorney Lewis: "Please note my exception."

Attorney Lewis—If Your Honor will indulge me, I wish to inquire as to the state of mind. I have always been permitted to ask such questions. I have never been stopped before.

Judge Stearns—Well, we will make a new record. We'll stop you this time."

Attorney Lewis—All right, Your Honor.

Attorney Lewis then continued his examination.

Q.—As a matter of fact, chief, didn't you play one of these boys against the other? A.—No. Healis implicated Brown and he was apprehended.

Q.—I didn't ask you about Healis. Now after you confronted Healis with Brown, did you turn to Brown and say, "Now, out with it, Brown—out with it"? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Do you want to leave it that way? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Oh, you want to leave it that way—I don't remember, eh? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, you said that after you kept Brown there from five to six hours you questioned him and he said, "If you say so, it must be so." Is that what you said?

Attorney Rice objected.

Q.—You were there, weren't you.

New Witness Says He Heard Spellman Admit Killing

Providence Police Commissioner Told Mrs. Mohr Asked Men If They Had Given Up Bargain

when he said that? A.—I was present.

Q.—You understood he was talking to you, didn't you? A.—He was listening.

Q.—You left out something Brown said, didn't you? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—Now, chief, as a matter of fact you didn't take down all that Brown said. Are you a stenographer? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Then you say you didn't put all that Brown said down verbatim—word for word. You didn't do that, did you? A.—No.

Q.—Won't you say, chief, that you left out something that Brown said to you? A.—Not knowingly.

Q.—Now, chief, won't you say that you left out something that Brown said to you? A.—Not knowingly.

ADMITS DENIAL.

Q.—Now, chief, isn't it a fact you testified to something that Brown said that is not in your memoranda at all? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you added to your memo—I mean you filled out the notes? A.—No.

Q.—But, chief, you have testified to things Brown said that are not in that memoranda? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who told you to add on something to what Brown said? A.—Nobody.

Q.—At any time during the interview between Brown, Healis and yourself, did Brown say to Healis "You are a —— —— liar?" A.—Such language was not used in my presence.

Q.—Will you say that Brown did not call Healis a liar? A.—Not in my presence.

Q.—That's the way you want to leave it, chief? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, chief, as to the statement of the alleged confession and admissions by Brown, are they any different from what you have testified to on the stand here? A.—Some things.

Q.—Are you certain about that? A.—I am pretty sure.

Q.—The statement that you gave to the newspapers—isn't it true that in that statement, chief, you are quoted as saying that Victor Brown said he did not kill Dr. Mohr and Healis said he did not shoot Miss Burger? A.—When—where—what date did I say that?

Q.—It is in the paper of September 9. You must have given it out the day before. That is the typewritten statement you gave out. Is that statement correct or is it not? A.—It is not correct.

Chief O'Neil was then questioned about his visit to the jail to see the prisoners. He admitted that the prisoners denied the confession at the jail.

Attorney Lewis said, "That is all," and walked to his seat with a smile.

Attorney Edwards, counsel for Spellman, then cross-examined Chief O'Neil.

At the afternoon session the courtroom was crowded as usual, and extra deputy sheriffs were required to clear the corridor.

Chief Inspector O'Neil again took the stand, and Counsel John J. Fitzgerald began his cross-examination for his client, Mrs. Mohr.

NO LAWYER THERE.

Q.—What time was Mrs. Mohr arrested and brought into your office at police headquarters? A.—About 7 o'clock in the morning of September 2.

Q.—Did she request to be permitted to have counsel present while you were questioning her? A.—She did.

Q.—Did you permit her to have a legal representative in the room? A.—I did not.

Q.—Why not? A.—Because it is not customary.

Q.—When Mrs. Mohr first entered the room didn't you ask her about the letter card that she had written to George W. Rooks? A.—I did.

Q.—Isn't it a fact, Chief O'Neil, that she admitted quite freely that she had written that letter card? A.—She did.

Q.—Also, when you asked her for a sample of her handwriting, didn't she give it to you immediately and without any hesitation whatsoever? A.—She did.

Q.—Where did you get the letter card that you showed Mrs. Mohr at that time? A.—From George W. Rooks.

Q.—Who is this George W. Rooks? A.—He is a brother-in-law of Miss Emily G. Burger, who was in the car on the night that Dr. Mohr was killed.

Q.—When did you get that card? A.—On the night of September 1, between five and six o'clock.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you saw Rooks at the Rhode Island Hospital and that he told you at that time that he suspected Mrs. Mohr of the crime? A.—No, that is not true.

Continuing his cross-examination of Chief O'Neil, Attorney Fitzgerald led him over the scenes and incidents connected with the shooting of Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger. Attorney Fitzgerald called the chief's attention to a room in the hospital where a conference was held in which Mr. Rooks, brother-in-law of Miss Burger figured.

Q.—Was Mr. Rooks there when you arrived? A.—He was.

Q.—Had you been in there at the time? A.—No. I met him on the floor above.

Q.—Where had he been? A.—He didn't tell me.

Q.—He had been in talking with Miss Burger, hadn't he? A.—He didn't tell me so, if he was.

Q.—Didn't he tell you anything about the conversation he had with her concerning George Healis, the chauffeur? A.—No.

Q.—Are you quite sure? A.—I am quite sure.

Q.—Hadn't you been in the room with Mr. Rooks before? A.—I passed him in the hallway.

Q.—Did you meet Dr. Morrissey and the other doctors—for there were several present—at the entrance of the receiving room of the hospital that night? A.—There were quite a number of doctors there that night.

Q.—Did you go to the room where Dr. Mohr was? A.—Where Dr. Mohr was? He was on the ground floor.

Q.—Did you go there to see him with Dr. Morrissey? A.—I asked if I could go and see Miss Burger.

Q.—Did you go and see Miss Burger that night? A.—With Healis.

Q.—Was Mr. Rooks in the room with Miss Burger when you got there? A.—I am not positive.

Chief O'Neil was cross-examined at length about the room in the hospital, but he was not positive who was there.

Q.—Did Miss Burger tell you about this affair when you went to see her?

Attorney-General Rice: "Wait a moment—just wait a moment, please. How is this question relevant?"

Judge Stearns: "I see no objection to the question. There is a reasonable limit for the way the chief investigated the case that night down to the time he got that postcard."

Chief O'Neil's answer was not audible to the press.

Q.—Did you come out of that room and say to Dr. Morrissey did not talk to you until she had seen Mr. Rooks?

Attorney-General Rice: "I object, Your Honor, to this question. It is irrelevant."

Judge Stearns: "He may answer."

Chief O'Neil: "No, sir."

Q.—That's a positive statement? A.—Yes; that's a positive statement.

Q.—Did you then not proceed to a room with Healis, the chauffeur, and the two doctors? A.—We went outside.

Q.—Wasn't there some talk in the corridor? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't Dr. King tell you to stop talking? A.—I am in doubt.

Q.—Dr. King told you not to talk so loud as there were a number of patients in the rooms on that floor. A.—Oh, yes.

Q.—You had a number of policemen with you that night, didn't you? A.—I think I did.

Q.—Inspector Ahearn was with you, wasn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—There was also a police captain and a lieutenant whose name I can't think of? A.—There was a captain and a lieutenant with me.

Q.—After the warning to stop talking given to you by Dr. King you did go into a room with Healis, those two doctors and Inspector Ahearn? A.—I did.

Q.—Didn't you bring Healis into the presence of Mr. Rooks and didn't Mr. Rooks say something when you said to Healis, "You say it to him," and didn't Rooks say to Healis, "You black —— why did you flash your lights"?

Q.—Was not the name of Mrs. Mohr first brought forward by Mr. Rooks? A.—That's so.

Q.—Didn't you hear Rooks say to Healis, "You know Mrs. Mohr framed this up?" A.—I don't remember.

The second great legal battle of the day occurred when the State tried to get the Court to admit the alleged confession of Brown, Spellman and Healis.

Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, in his cross-examination of Chief O'Neil said:

"Was there anything said in that alleged confession about either Brown or Spellman killing Dr. Mohr?"

Q.—Didn't you receive word from Chief Robbins of Barrington about 5:30 on the night of September 1 to the effect that Healis had confessed? A.—I did.

Q.—Did that confession implicate Mrs. Mohr in any way? A.—It did not.

Q.—Did you not ask to speak with Healis over the telephone? A.—I did but it was merely to get the address of Cecil Victor Brown, the other colored boy, whom he implicated.

Direct Accusation of Witness Stuns Mrs. Mohr, Declares Mrs. Futrelle

"Most Cruel of All the Cruel Things She Has Suffered; No Escape from Knife Thrust"

By MRS. JACQUES FUTRELLE.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 14.—"Spellman told me that Mrs. Mohr hired them to kill Dr. Mohr." Without preliminary, a big inspector of police, towering above her in the witness box, thrust a knife into the heart of Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Mohr.

Mrs. Mohr sat quite still looking up at the big inspector, stunned no doubt. It was the most cruel of all the cruel things she has suffered.

Her eyes closed for a moment wearily, she opened her lips, and closed them, then she turned and looked toward Attorney Cushing, who sat next to her. It was a silent appeal for protection in the helpless position in which she found herself.

She must have had an inkling of what was going to happen. Her attorneys had fought desperately to have the alleged confessions, made by the negroes to the inspectors, kept out of the testimony from the moment Chief William F. O'Neil mounted the witness stand. But they didn't succeed. Justice Stearns admitted the alleged confessions, the knife thrust was sent home unerringly. And just because she expected it, it was none the less agony.

She was compelled to listen; there was no escape. No matter how it might affect her, no matter how innocent she might be. In a crowded courtroom, packed to the doors with men and women, she needs must hear the words that actually accuse her of the death of her husband. Not an insinuation that she might have been responsible, not an expression of reasonable doubt, but a direct charge that cannot be ignored, disregarded, brushed aside; that must be taken into account, reckoned with.

Mrs. Mohr is today facing a situation that may or may not take away her liberty for life. It is the utmost extent of punishment in Rhode Island.

Chief Inspector O'Neil is a worthy representative of the majesty of the law. He stands six feet, according to his own statement, and weighs 225 pounds. He's handsome, even with his exceptionally bald head; somehow the baldness with a slight fringe of white hair seems exactly to suit his particular personality.

His piercing gray eyes, set within his rosy face, look out upon life deliberately. There isn't the slightest doubt about it when the inspector looks at a person. His mighty voice sounds as if it might be projected from a thirteen-inch gun and gives a force to his words that cannot be denied.

His presence upon the witness stand is a truly magnificent spectacle. His volcanic utterances spout from his full lips with absolute finality. Belligerence is written all over his powerful frame; he fairly exudes strength. Occasionally he condescends to unbend and treat his hearers to a bit of clever sarcasm—he's witty, the inspector—but all in all, he upholds the dignity of the law admirably. And he occasionally contradicts himself in the most delightful manner.

From what I can gather of his position in the Mohr case, and I have listened to him attentively, is that he thinks a thing and everybody else must think it; he says a thing and it is to be believed, was uttered for that especial purpose; he does a thing and its right, and that's all there is to it.

The inspector, undoubtedly, is on the side of the law, he understands its principles thoroughly, is more than qualified to defend its purposes.

He has been handling criminals now for twenty-six years and is so competent in doing so that just to prove it he occasionally takes a prisoner away from another chief, and locks him up in his particular jail.

This is no reflection on the ability of the other chief, not in the least, the inspector assures us it isn't and it isn't.

"Spellman told me that Mrs. Mohr hired them to kill Dr. Mohr." It was hurled at a woman by the inspector of police in an attempt to take away her liberty for life.

Mrs. Futrelle Tells of Widow's Ordeal

MRS. MOHR was compelled to listen: there was no escape. No matter how it might affect her, no matter how innocent she might be. In a crowded courtroom, packed to the doors with men and women, she needs must hear the words that actually accuse her of the death of her husband. Not an insinuation that she might have been responsible, not an expression of reasonable doubt, but a direct charge that cannot be ignored, disregarded, brushed aside: that must be taken into account, reckoned with.—From Mrs. Jacques Futrelle's story of the Mohr trial.

Pictures Widow's Emotion in Court

By SOPHIE TREADWELL.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 14.—A delicate cream colored correspondence card was brought into court in the Mohr trial and marked State exhibit No. 3. And perhaps the most damaging bit of evidence for the case against Mrs. Mohr was this part of the record.

The State claims Mrs. Mohr planned the shooting of her husband and his companion, Emily Burger, by two negro boys on the night of August 31. The shooting resulted in the death of Dr. Mohr and the wounding of Miss Burger.

The card was written more than a year before the murder to George W. Rooks, Miss Burger's brother-in-law. Mrs. Mohr, the morning two days after the crime when she was being questioned by Chief of Police O'Neil, admitted that she wrote it, as she explained, "in one of her moments of frenzy." It says:

"Dear Mr. Rooks—Just a line to ask you to tell your sister-in-law, Emily Burger, if she dares to go into my Newport home again she will never come out alive.

"I am giving her fair warning. No matter what the outcome will be I will see it through.

"I was told about her buying linen at Gladding's for Dr. Mohr. I do hope you will try and straighten matters. I know you can't stop her from going out to dinner with him, but she will have a sad ending if she keeps aggravating me.

"My home is being watched and if I should leave Newport this Summer my home will be watched just the same and should I get word I will come right on. The world is with me in my sorrow. I am heartbroken.

Respectfully,
ELIZABETH F. MOHR."

WIDOW MOVED TO SOBS.

Mrs. Mohr sat very still while the card was being read to the jury. But when the words "the world is with me in my sorrow" were reached, she began to cry. It was the first emotion she has shown since the trial began.

With the exception of this powerful bit of evidence it was not a very good day for the State's case.

The promised "written confession" of the two negro boys, Brown and Spellman, turned out to be but memorandum notes jotted down by the chief of police and unsigned by either of the two accused men.

The State has a signed confession by Healis, the chauffeur, but he is not on trial and will be used as a witness for the prosecution.

The notes were not put in evidence, but Chief of Police O'Neil, who was on the stand all day, told the jury what Brown and Spellman said when they are alleged to have confessed.

CHIEF TELLS STORY.

The chief said the negro boys told him that they shot Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger, because "Mrs. Mohr wanted us to. She promised us money—$5,000, $2,000 to Brown, $2,000 to Healis and $1,000 to Spellman."

Mrs. Mohr was brought to the chief's office and questioned as to her knowledge of the crime, early in the morning of the second day after the murder.

She was brought into the room with Brown and Spellman, and told that they implicated her. The chief admitted that her request to have her lawyer with her during the questioning was denied her, but she was able to face the police and the two negro boys alone and deny any knowledge of the murder.

SPELLMAN ACCUSED WIDOW.

The chief also admitted that the first confession he obtained from Healis contained no reference to Mrs. Mohr. It was Spellman who first accused her of having hired them to do the shooting.

The chief said that the name of Mrs. Mohr was first brought into the case by George W. Rooks, Miss Burger's brother-in-law. He said it was Rooks who gave him the letter card.

William A. Lewis counsel for Brown, was the big figure in the courtroom today. His cross-examination of Chief O'Neil brought out several interesting side lights on the methods the police used to secure the alleged confession from Brown.

The chief acknowledged that Brown was not allowed to sleep in his cell from 1 in the morning until 5 or 6 just before he made his confession, as was first stated, but that he had, in fact, been intermittently questioned during most of that time.

The Treatment of Influenza or La Grippe

It is quite refreshing these days to read of a clearly defined treatment for influenza or La Grippe. In an article in the "Lancet-Clinic," Dr. James Bell, of New York City, says he is convinced that too much medication is both unnecessary and injurious.

When called to a case of la grippe, the patient is usually seen when the fever is present, as the chill which occasionally ushers in the disease, has practically passed away. Dr. Bell then orders that the bowels be opened freely with salts, "Actoids" or citrate of magnesia. For the high fever, severe headache, pain and general soreness, one anti-kamnia tablet every three hours is quickly followed by complete relief. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headache, neuralgia and all pains.

EXPLOSION WRECKS ACTON POWDER MILL

Acton, Jan. 14.—An explosion wrecked the No. [illegible] mill of the American Powder Company. No one was hurt and, according to company employes, the loss was unimportant. The mill was a small one, and, like other buildings used for the making of explosives, was isolated.

ADVOCATES LAW FOR BIRTH CONTROL

"Birth control" was advocated by Dr. Jennie Segal Reitman before the public health conference in Chipman Hall under the auspices of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Dr. Reitman pleaded for a modification of the present law so that physicians might be consulted upon the question of birth control. She said:

"This is a most essential matter. It is a question of economics.

"We need to control the birth statistics so that fewer children will be born to those unequal to the caring of a large family, either from an economic or physical point of view.

"Large families of an inferior type should be done away with by some agency which will have the protection of law. The question of how to make birth control legal as well as scientific is one of the most important of the day.

"We hope that Massachusetts will bring about a modification of the present law which will allow physicians to tell women what to do to have their children healthy and strong.

"Large families do not belong to this age. They may belong to those able to support them. They do not belong, however, to those unfit or unable to care for them."

Dr. Marie Knudson of the New England Hospital made a plea for "twilight sleep" for women who desire this treatment.

Blame War for Birth of Child Without Limbs

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 14.

LOCAL physicians are deeply interested in the birth of a child without hands or feet, at Victoria Hospital here. The little one, whose parents are well known and highly respected, was born Saturday and is a strong, healthy and bright child.

Various theories have been advanced as to the cause. One is that war atrocities are to blame for prenatal influences.

The question of allowing the child to live has been raised, but the doctors refuse to discuss it.

STATE POLICE AT WESTFIELD STRIKE

Westfield, Jan. 14.—Efforts were made to organize the 1,200 employes of the H. B. Smith Company, manufacturers of radiators and steam boilers, who were thrown out of work early in the week by the strike of 300 laborers for shorter hours and more pay. Pickets have been placed about the plant, but so far there has been no disorder.

Percy N. Hall of the Board of Selectmen discussed the situation with Governor McCall, pointing out that the town had a police force of only fourteen men to cope with any trouble. The Governor instructed the State police to keep in touch with affairs.

Members of the State police in Hampden County are on the scene.

Those who fell victims were haled to court, and in most cases were fined from $1 to $5 each.

Roxbury Meeting on 'L' Service

BARELY WEDGED INTO THIS CAR

Last Wednesday night I was forced to wait sixteen minutes at Roxbury Crossing for a car and then five came along, the first three filled to overflowing. In several instances the conductor had trouble in closing the prepayment doors. I might say also that on the morning previous I boarded a car at South Huntington avenue, just wedging myself in. There were 127 cash fares and nineteen transfers. When the car reached the Public Garden I managed to find a seat.—From complaint of Roxbury citizen against "L" service.

Roxbury citizens will hold a mass meeting at the Martin Grammar School, Huntington avenue and Worthington streets, tonight, to discuss the failure of the Elevated to give the Roxbury section adequate car service.

A principal demand to be voiced at the meeting is for the restoration of car stops along Huntington avenue near Calumet street.

Overcrowding of the cars will be another grievance to receive attention.

Mayor Curley has been invited to the meeting. Residents of the Mission Hill district and of the Francis street neighborhood are joining their protest to those of others, objecting particularly to curtailment of the service, removal of stops and overcrowding.

The Elevated attitude on the question of abolishing these stops has been stated thus:

TOO MANY STOPS, SAYS "L."

"It is plainly apparent that the stops for the district are of undue number. This is especially true with our trailer cars in operation. We would be glad to make some other arrangement which would be satisfactory, but we are unable to do so."

Andrew M. Buckley of Merton place, Roxbury, is a leader in the movement of protest against the Elevated's conduct. He is a member of the Suffolk County Apportioning Board. He said:

"As I understand it, there is a federal law compelling railroads to care properly for cattle while being transported. We have not any laws governing the regulations upon railroads as to conveying of passengers. If railroads are compelled to protect cattle, I really believe there should be legislation to protect the passengers on the cars of the Boston Elevated.

"Cars operated through Huntington avenue, from what I can determine, come about every fifteen minutes, and then two or three more follow, and then it is a case of waiting fifteen minutes longer. They do not run on schedule time. The people of Ward 19 have a well-founded protest also on the removal of these stops. I cannot see what good the Elevated gains in removing the stops."

"When Superintendent of Traffic Edward Dana conferred on the ground with a group of citizens interested, suggestions of a readjustment were made by the citizens," said Michael O'Brien. "The railroad agreed there were too many stops. It was suggested that the inward stop be replaced at Calumet street and that the outward stop be made before crossing Fenwood road. Another suggestion was made that the inward Wait street stop be made before crossing the street and that the outward stop be after crossing Wait street.

CHANGES OPPOSED.

"Later, I understand, an L official stated that he had a satisfactory arrangement worked out which he felt would meet with the approval of the citizens, and then came the reply that there was not anything that could be done. It became known later that this official favored certain changes, but he met with opposition by other officials, and thus we were refused."

Representative William H. Sullivan, minority leader in the lower branch of the Legislature, is interested in the fight, as is Representative James H. McInerney. McInerney says it is disgraceful for the road to remove these stops.

"What is their object?" he asked. "As it is now, I am compelled to walk from St. Alban's road to Fenwood road or to Kempton street. The public is entitled to some consideration."

"Some Elevated officials have presented the argument that these new stops are a safety. Where does it come in?" said J. M. Reily. "They will tell us that the police say it is good judgment from the safety point of view, that the Farragut School is located there and that numerous children use the crosswalk to reach or leave the school.

"A police officer is stationed at this section each morning at 8:30 until 9, when the children are going to school; he is there when they come out at noon, he is there again when they return for the afternoon session and again when school adjourns in the afternoon.

"But this is not any argument against our demands. We have the inward stop before crossing and the outward after crossing. Now how can they argue safety when one line stops after crossing."

HIT-OR-MISS SERVICE.

Referring to the car service, patrons say that people living along Huntington avenue have a hit-or-miss experience. They say that ten years ago and later when the district was without hospitals, other institutions and apartments, there were twenty-eight cars per hour operated from the different stations through Brighton circle down to the subway, while at the present time during the normal hours they say they have about sixteen cars per hour, and then they come in streams.

Another citizen says: "I do considerable riding and never has the service been so inadequate as it is today. The Elevated drive people like cattle into Dudley street cars. That is why we are getting fewer cars on Huntington avenue. Only last Wednesday I waited for a car in the Park street subway for fourteen minutes and then two Jamaica Plain cars, which run on seven and eight minute time; two Allston cars, running on fifteen-minute time, and one Cypress street arrived. Of course the first three cars were crowded. Why can't cars be operated on some kind of time?

"Last Wednesday night I was forced to wait sixteen minutes at Roxbury Crossing for a car and then five came along, the first three filled to overflowing. In several instances the conductor had trouble in closing the prepayment doors. I might say also that on the morning previous I boarded a car at South Huntington avenue, just wedging myself in. There were 127 cash fares and nineteen transfers. When the car reached the Public Garden I managed to find a seat. I noticed when the car reached the subway, the next car coming from the direction of Brigham circle was six minutes behind."

RELIEF MUST COME.

Men in civilian's clothes, employed by the Elevated, were sent to Brigham Circle last Wednesday to tabulate cars, remaining until 11 o'clock in the evening. Many cars which passed, coming from Park street and the Dudley street terminal were crowded.

City Councillor James A. Watson is in favor of the restoration of the stops. He also believes that the car service is not what it should be considering the increased population in Ward 19. He says:

"Has the Elevated given any good reason for the removal of these stops? I don't believe that 'undue number' of stops in the case. There are other sections where stops are more numerous than at this spot and these are not far away either. The public are entitled to some consideration."

That lives and property upon Fenwood road are menaced by the stop at Fenwood road is the contention of many who say that the matter should be brought to the attention of Fire Commissioner Grady.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S FACE AND KNEES

Very Tiny Red Pimples. Changed To Dry, Scaly Crusts. Kept Hands in Bags.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When my little girl was a baby she had patches of eczema on her face and over her knees. The breaking out was like very tiny red pimples at first and soon changed to dry scaly crusts, giving a very rough appearance, and causing her much discomfort, and I kept her hands in bags to keep her from scratching.

"I tried several kinds of salves and liquids which did not benefit her and she looked worse. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and soon after she grew better and was quickly healed. I have always kept the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the house since." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Knight, 5 East High St., Newbury, Mass., Oct. 19, 1915.

STOMACH TROUBLES DUE TO ACIDITY

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation, the result of excess acid, is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas. Wind distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive secretion of acid and the fermentation of food. Such fermentation is unnatural and may involve harmful consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, perhaps the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by gas and excessive acid.

Politics of the Vatican to Play No Part in Peace

By International News Service.

Rome, Jan. 14.—Political affairs of the Vatican will play no part in the peace conference when the war ends, says the Corriere d'Italia in an article attributed to a semi-official source.

Denial is made of recent reports that the Kaiser had offered Pope Benedict XV. the presidency of the peace congress.

"Up to date," says the Corriere d'Italia, "the Holy See has never directly or indirectly sought to secure the support of either group of belligerents in return for participation in the peace parley. The Pope's only desire is to alleviate humanity's suffering during the present critical hour.

"Italy fears that the Pope's participation in the congress would be unwarranted, as the Pope would never ask the conclave to solve any question except those directly involved in the conflict. The Roman question would never be raised."

BOX 52 FUND HAS PASSED $6,000 MARK

With this check and a number of smaller donations received at the Hibernia Bank, where the fund is being collected, the total passed the $6,000 mark.

BILL TO PROTECT NIAGARA FALLS

Washington, Jan. 14.—The problem of limiting the diversion of the waters of Niagara Falls for power purposes was taken up today by the House foreign affairs committee. A bill introduced by Representative Cline of Indiana, proposing a joint agreement between the United States and Canada to regulate the use of the waters of the falls was before the committee and probably will be favorably reported.

FISHING STEAMER TOWED TO PORT

Gloucester, Jan. 14.—The fishing steamer Carrie and Mildred, Captain Roland Lewis, was brought into port today by the fishing steamer Philomena, Captain Lee Murray, after being adrift at sea since early yesterday, her engine having broken down. Considerable anxiety was felt for the safety of the crew until the crippled steamer was towed to her berth.

MRS. WILLIAM B. WATTS, bride of former Deputy Superintendent of Boston Police.

G. F. ROSENTHAL SUED FOR DIVORCE

Suit for divorce has been filed in Chicago against Gabriel F. Rosenthal, son of a former wealthy Dorchester wool merchant, by his wife, Mrs. Clara McKain Rosenthal.

Rosenthal is now reported as serving a term in the Michigan State Penitentiary for alleged forgery. His imprisonment was preceded by a series of sensational escapades, during which he spent a $10,000 legacy.

There is $40,000 more awaiting him when he reaches forty. He is now twenty-five. The money was left by his father, Jacob Rosenthal, a few years ago. The latter committed suicide. The escapades of his son were ascribed as the cause.

"CHIEF" WATTS' MARRIAGE A SURPRISE

Former Deputy Superintendent of Police William B. Watts and Mrs. Grace I. Dunbar were married December 23, their Boston friends learned today with surprise. They have set up housekeeping at No. 90 Fenway, and their home there was the centre today of congratulatory messages and calls.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Van Ness of No. 314 Beacon street, with only members of the immediate families present.

Watts and Mrs. Dunbar have been acquainted some time. During her trouble with Charles C. Dunbar, a liquor salesman, now divorced, she lived at the Watts home, and Dunbar, in testifying in his suit for annulment, said the home was barred to him.

"Chief" Watts was a prominent figure in that annulment trial. He admitted trips to Savannah and New York on the same boat on which Mrs. Dunbar was a passenger, and also admitted attending several suppers where she was also a guest. Others were always present on these occasions, he said. Dunbar's annulment suit failed, but a divorce was later granted.

Mrs. Dunbar's marriage to Watts is her fourth matrimonial adventure. She was Grace I. Eaton of Haverhill and at the age of eighteen married George C. Wilder in Chicago.

In 1881 she was divorced from him and later married Charles Brown of Cambridge. Three years after Brown's death she married Dunbar, in Manchester, N. H.

BUILDING TO BE 'PINK GRANITE' SAYS DILLON

Park and Recreation Commissioner John H. Dillon today indignantly denied the report that the convenience station to be erected on the Common, and against which a tremendous protest has arisen, is to be constructed of pink marble, but said it would be built of "pink granite."

"That report is absurd," he said.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.—Advertisement.

Martial Law in El Paso Follows Riots Against All Mexicans There is being circulated. It was said that more than 2,500 signatures have already been secured.

FURNISH OWN OUTFITS.

Practically all who have enrolled have volunteered to furnish their own outfits. The recruits include many prominent residents of El Paso as well as ranchmen and former members of the Texas rangers.

Fearing arrest by the federal authorities on the charge of plotting a military enterprise against a country at peace with the United States, the men involved in this movement refuse to give out the names of the volunteers.

The roster of names is headed "a call to arms." The news that General Jose Rodriguez and General Almeida as well as several other Villa chieftains have been captured by Carranza troops and that Almeida was immediately executed, was expected to allay the bitter race feeling, but it had very little effect in that direction.

Rodriguez and Almeida were both believed to be implicated in Monday's massacres. Reports that eight American men, one American woman and an English woman were slain by Mexican bandits near Madera in Chihuahua are untrue, according to the telegraph operator of the National railway at Madera.

Thousands of telegrams have been sent to Washington by relatives and friends of the Americans massacred on Monday as well as by prominent residents on the border. They are addressed to President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and to various members of Congress. Arrangements were made for a big indignation meeting late to-day. Mayor Thomas Lea was first inclined to refuse permission, but fearing this would lead to lynchings he finally signed the permit.

CAVALRY TO KEEP ORDER.

Among those invited to speak at this meeting were former Governor George Curry of New Mexico, Captain John Greenway of Arizona, a former member of the Rough Riders, and District Judge E. L. Nedler.

Fifty policemen and one hundred U. S. cavalrymen were detailed to keep order at the meeting.

For the past twenty-four hours there has been a strong exodus of Mexicans from El Paso. Twenty-one Mexicans who were prominently identified with the Villa movement were warned to leave, as fears were felt that they would be lynched if they remained.

Among them were Miguel Lombardo, Foreign Minister in Villa's Cabinet, and General Manuel Medinaveytia, formerly Villa's chief of staff.

The first of the victims of Monday's massacre to be buried were E. L. Robinson and Thomas Anderson. The body of George W. Newman has been shipped to Keene, N. H., for burial. The remains of A. H. Couch have been sent to Bayard, Tex. The burial of William D. Pearce will take place in Los Angeles.

BODIES SHIPPED.

Relatives of Charles Wadleigh living in Buffalo, N. Y., claimed his body and it has been shipped to that city for interment.

Charles A. Pringle will be buried in San Francisco, to which city his remains were shipped early today.

H. C. Hase's remains have been shipped to Kansas City and those of Alexander Hall have been sent to Douglas, Ariz.

By Sunday all the bodies will have been buried or sent to distant cities for interment.

It was expected that the remains of William J. Wallace would be shipped to Chicago today.

General Jose Rodriguez, Villa leader, said to have been responsible for the massacre of Americans, who has been reported captured by Carranzistas and sentenced to death.

WILSON AWAITS FACTS BEFORE TAKING ANY ACTION ON MEXICO

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, January 14.—President Wilson will take no action to determine whether a change in his Mexican policy is necessary until the following facts are established:

1—Whether the Carranza government actually was at fault for failure specifically to protect the men murdered in Chihuahua state.

2—Whether the Carranza government has done everything it could to protect foreign lives and property and to stamp out all bandit gangs.

3—Whether Carranza actually is making an honest effort to re-establish law and order and is employing all means at his disposal to bring this about.

4—Whether the men murdered in northern Mexico had full knowledge that they returned to their properties in opposition to the expressed wishes of the United States government.

5—Whether the murdered men traveled on safe conducts issued by the Carranza authorities at El Paso and Juarez.

6—Whether either Carranza or Obregon had official knowledge that Villa had threatened the wholesale extermination of Americans.

INSIST ON JUSTICE.

Meanwhile the State Department will continue to insist that Carranza make an example of the murderers.

And it is stated officially that a communication that they were pursued and shot down will not be sufficient. The Carranza commander in Chihuahua will be expected to produce physical evidence that the chiefs of the band did not get away.

Because of the few State Department representatives in Northern Mexico it has been impossible to verify reports that many other Americans have fallen victims to scattered bands of Villistas. The State Department admits that its information is conflicting and that very little of it is official. Today the department was endeavoring to get all Americans out of danger zone.

Representatives at El Paso have been instructed to rush a special train south through Chihuahua to bring all Americans and other foreigners into American territory.

Meanwhile additional assurances have been received from Elizeo Arredondo, Carranza's representative here, that every possible effort is being exerted by Carranza to revenge the murder of American citizens and to exterminate all Villi[illegible]

CAVALRY HUNT.

He said today that a [illegible] cavalry of the Carranza armies [illegible] utilized in this task and that [illegible]ed that General Obregon, supre[illegible]mander of the Carranzista [illegible] will take the field in person if [illegible] not already done so.

The indignation in Congress has not lessened and further speeches demanding a change of policy are in process of preparation. Senator Lewis of Illinois said this morning that his resolution gives authority to the President to use the army and navy to restore in Mexico in the same manner that they have been used in Central America and the West Indies.

In the absence of Senator Kern Lewis is acting as Democratic leader, but it is explained that his resolution does not represent President Wilson's views.

Republican Senators who have been demanding intervention insist that the Lewis resolution is not entirely frank, but it is having the effect of "muddying the waters." Senators Fall and Borah hold that the President does not need any such authority and that anyhow the Lewis resolution does not call for any change in policy, simply giving the President power to do something if he sees fit to do so.

WHOLLY UNPREPARED.

Officials of the White House insist that the only eventuality which would force an immediate change in President Wilson's present policy would be renewed killings of Americans.

Even though the President was willing to consider intervention, officials say he has insufficient forces available for that purpose. It is considered certain that Carranza never would give his consent to American soldiers crossing the Rio Grande, and that if this should be attempted all Mexicans now under arms would present a united front to the American invaders.

There are approximately 150,000 Mexicans, well armed and equipped, who would have to be reckoned with, army officers say.

Officials of the general staff say it would require 150,000 well-trained, seasoned men as an original unit to undertake the pacification of Mexico. And these men would not be sufficient to maintain strong garrisons at all strategic points and to cope with the guerilla warfare that would come with the first few general battles. The National Guard organizations, available, army officers say, would require weeks of careful training before they could be used in Mexico.

Reports that the Atlantic fleet, now en route to southern drill grounds for maneuvres, had been ordered to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Mexico were denied at the Navy Department today. It was admitted, however, that the officials are well pleased with the fact that the fleet will be in such location within the next few days that in an emergency many of the vessels could make Mexican waters within 72 hours.

Cardinal Attacks Mexican Policy

By WILLIS J. ABBOT,

Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 14.—"All that has been done in Mexico in the past for civilization, for progress, for humanity, has been done under the guidance of the church. Today the church is cut off from all communion with its people in that sorely distressed land.

"We would give them material aid, but our agencies for assistance are shattered, our bishops exiled, our clergymen without abiding places. We can see nothing in the immediate future but a continuance of the domination of the forces of irreligion, atheism and anarchy in the Mexican country."

James Cardinal Gibbons sat in the simple residence, which by courtesy in Baltimore they call the Cardinal's palace, and talked with me of Mexico, of the sorely-stricken people of that land, denied at once the comforts of peace and the consolations of religion.

WITHOUT RESENTMENT.

In his manner was nothing of resentment, nothing of harsh or bitter criticism of the political forces in this land, which he holds largely responsible for the political and social anarchy today prevailing south of the Rio Grande.

Rather was it the sorrowful manner of a father sorely troubled with the future of his children, the regretful utterance of a humanitarian who has at his hand the means for ameliorating the sufferings of a stricken people, but who is denied the power to apply them.

With no desire to embarrass President Wilson, but rather having every wish to aid in all endeavors to bring peace and quiet again to the people of Mexico, he said, "I cannot be blind to the fact that the ultimate destruction of all authority in that land is the logical result of the policy of the administration from its very inception.

"We cannot apply to the Mexicans the principles upon which our own government is founded. Simple, illiterate, untrained for participation in even the humblest functions of government, they have been unfit to be called upon suddenly to organize their state along the democratic lines of our own.

"The strong man has been needed in Mexico. The long and energetic rule of Porforio Diaz demonstrated that. But since Diaz no strong man has won the favor of our government."

CONDEMNS CARRANZA.

"What of Carranza?"

"His strength is merely that of the outlaw, the bandit temporarily in power; the forces behind him are of such a character that no State can ever be founded enduringly upon them.

"They are said to be hostile to the Catholic Church. Undoubtedly this is true, but it is only part of the truth. They are the foes of religion, hostile to the idea of divine power itself.

"They are revolutionists against the church and State alike and, like the extreme wing of the French revolutionists, would abolish all forms of religion, all idea of man's responsibility to God.

"So far as the United States committing itself to the recognition of Carranza is concerned, Senator Lodge expressed precisely the views I hold. He asked whether the Ambassador of the United States should pursue Carranza to present his credentials; Whether to the hasty camping place of an irregular soldier on the march or into some ruined village held only for a moment and unworthy the name of capital.

"He asked, too, whether Ambassador Fletcher was to be credited to Carranza as President of Mexico or as first chief of only one sect of revolutionists."

The Cardinal made no comment upon the nomination of Mr. Fletcher. Since Huerta, he said, no really strong man has appeared at the head of any Mexican faction. When considerations which apparently were to be all-controlling made Huerta's recognition impossible, all that has followed came logically and inevitably.

WORSE THAN BEFORE.

"Mexico is today in worse plight than ever before. The whole truth about the outlawry, the robbery, the wholesale assassinations in that unhappy country is not being told," continued Cardinal Gibbons.

"Our government is not now protecting and never has protected its own people in Mexico. I do not myself believe that we should have intervened by force of arms. That would have been the worst of all possible policies. But we should have protected our citizens. That has not been done. It has indeed hardly been attempted.

MRS. GEORGE W. NEWMAN, widow of the Dartmouth athlete slain in the massacre of Americans in Mexico.

"The property of the church in Mexico has been wantonly destroyed or stolen.

"The bands of banditti, whose First Chief, Carranza, is to be honored by the accrediting to him of an ambassador of the United States, pillaged the sanctuaries and despoiled the very altars of their vessels and drapings.

"How is it possible to base upon such a foundation a government which the United States may dignify by recognition? The church in the United States is deprived of any means of communicating with its brethren in Mexico. Knowing of the sore straits of our people there, we gathered together a fund for their assistance. But how distribute it? Our bishops are driven from their sees.

"I wrote to the archbishop of Mexico, now a refugee in San Antonio, and was given by him the name of one in Mexico City who, he thought, might aid us. But our letters to this friend are unanswered. Perhaps he, too, has gone down to unknown death with the army of victims of the Mexican revolution about whose end is drawn the veil of silence.

OUTRAGES TOO TRUE.

"Whatever the explanation it is the fact that today, long after the recognition of Carranza and while the newspapers are full of reports of returning peace and order in Mexico, the church finds its bishops and other clergy driven forth and is unable to discover even lay agencies to carry aid to its suffering children."

I asked His Eminence about the facts as to the torture of priests and violation of nuns.

"The facts as to those outrages are unhappily only too true," responded His Eminence.

"There are many affidavits in existence corroborating not only these reports of cruelty to priests, but of outrages perpetrated on holy women. Unfortunately, too, these cannot be looked upon wholly as incidents of a lawless past, which the Carranzistas are trying to correct today.

"There is much evidence that the same atrocities are being perpetrated now, particularly in Yucatan, to which the power of Carranza has recently been extended.

"Indeed, they are only the sort of a procedure that may be expected from barbarous forces who, from their leader down, are animated by fierce hostility to all forms of religion—not only to my church, but to yours and to all others.

"I do not believe that a government founded on atheistic principles will last, and it is for this reason among others that I have no confidence in this latest expedient of the administration for restoring order in Mexico."

"I suppose, your Eminence," was asked, "that the material loss of the Church during the long period of anarchy in Mexico must have been enormous? Will claims for compensation be urged if the Carranzistas should succeed in establishing an enduring government?"

"The Church has indeed suffered heavily. Our churches have been dismantled, sacked, robbed of everything of the slightest value. The residences of our bishops and priests have been looted. Church property of every sort has been the easy spoil of the outlaw and the revolutionist.

"The Church will, of course, put in its claim for compensation. But that claim will not be urged to the point of delaying in any degree the work of reestablishing order and stable government if that task shall be committed to trustworthy hands.

SUFFERS HEAVILY.

"It is the complete check to our spiritual humanitarian work which we most deplore. Study Mexican history as you will, you will yet find that every step of Mexican people upward has been guided by the church. She has been at all times their teacher. When her authority was flouted and her care repulsed, then came the evil days which Mexico is now enduring.

"And they think to build up again the shattered evidence of Mexican hopes and aspirations by trusting the very men who did most to drag it down.

"It is unthinkable. Impossible.

"That is the reason why, with every recognition of the many perplexities which beset President Wilson in his effort to deal with this problem I have still very grave apprehensions about it."

McCotter Wants to Intervene in Mexico

President Wilson's methods of settling the Mexican situation are useless, is the opinion given today by many Boston people, who are acquainted with conditions in Mexico.

Charles T. McCotter, former superintendent of the Mexican Central Railway and for many years a resident of Mexico, said:

We should end at once the application of Sunday school methods towards the solution of the Mexican difficulty. President Wilson has too long favored this policy. The complete failure of it is now apparent.

GEORGE W. NEWMAN, Keene, N. H., man who was among the victims in the massacre of Americans by Villa followers in Mexico.

I believe in intervention, but what's the use? There are few Americans left now in Mexico and nearly all the property has been seized. You can't tell President Wilson anything about conditions in Mexico. He has shown all along that a grievious mistake has been made.

Men who are well acquainted with Mexico, would have been willing to advise him, but he has shown a reluctance to hear and largely depends upon those who know little or nothing about the country.

WILSON HAS BLUNDERED.

His whole attitude is to be regretted. After ten years or more in an official character in Mexico, and being in direct communication with affairs in that country, I am free to say that President Wilson has blundered and everyone who is familiar with that country knows he has blundered.

When he asked the Mexicans to have an election to name their own President, he made his first great mistake. Why, there has never been an election in Mexico, which deserves the name of an election. I have been present when elections have taken place and the farce has been apparent on all sides.

To go through Mexico today you can see the effects of Sunday school methods of trying to solve the Mexican difficulty. You cannot persuade the Mexicans. Force is the most effective weapon. Mexicans must be brought to terms by compulsion, not by note writing.

INTERVENE IN RIGHT WAY.

President Wilson's policy in getting Huerta out of the way is another instance how little in the past he has grasped the Mexican situation.

It may be fortunate for us that England, Germany and France have been engaged in war for had they been free, they would have compelled this government long ago to have taken up more seriously the problem.

Intervene by all means in the right way, but don't intervene in the Wilsonian style. That has been a gloomy failure. Let England, Germany and France get together and through conference with the United States appoint the ruler of Mexico.

Strong outside influence upon Mexico is essential. If you try Sunday school methods there, you will have storms and confusion for years to come. The vested rights of Americans should be protected there and this is what President Wilson has failed to do.

Other Boston comment was as follows:

THE REV. W. A. KENZIE of the Baptist Publication Society, who has had an extensive acquaintance with Mexico:

We have recognized Carranza too hastily. That's our great mistake. We will see more of it. Instead of doing something, we were willing to get out of the difficulty through recognizing a leader, when our policy with Mexico should have been more that of a parent. We should not have spared the rod and spoiled the child. President Wilson's policy has done more to aggravate conditions there. The people do not care for the United States. If the policy of our government had been different and not so wordy in its official documents, things would have been different. We must hold a firm hand over Mexico for some time. Mexico is in no state to be persuaded to do anything. Get them in a state of fear and they will obey.

General Wood and U. S. Army Should Be Sent Into Mexico, Says Roosevelt

Calls Massacre Dreadful Outrage and Inevitable Outcome of Washington Policy.

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

New York, Jan. 14.—Theodore Roosevelt's solution of the Mexican crisis is to send General Wood with an army into Mexico forthwith to restore order, exactly as he restored order in Cuba after the Spanish war. And there can be no doubt that were Roosevelt President of the United States, Wood at the head of an army, and backed by a fleet, would now be on his way.

In Colonel Roosevelt's view there is a hundred times as much reason for armed intervention in Mexico as there was for interference in Cuba.

He believes that only by such means that a repetition of such outrages as that of Monday can be prevented.

Pacing the floor of the great trophy room in his Oyster Bay house, and biting out his words angrily, the Colonel talked for half an hour on the Mexican situation and the causes leading up to it. He did not say kind things of the administration, which he holds to strict accountability for all that has been done in Mexico.

He used short and ugly words in discussing the administration's European policy, which he said is very likely to result in the taking over of Mexico by one or more of the belligerents when peace is restored.

Incidentally he held Mr. Wilson responsible for the struggle that his Democratic associates, Bryan, Hay and Kitchen, are making to defeat the popular determination to be prepared against aggression.

Striding from one corner of the big room to another, over the heads of the lions he has slain and under the great antlers of moose and elk, he talked rapidly, and at times excitedly.

"This dreadful outrage," he began, "is only an inevitable outcome of the policy that has been followed in Mexico for the past five years and above all for the last three years.

"The policy of watchful waiting," the colonel emphasized the phrase decisively, "the policy of not interfering with blood spilling, the policy of asking South and Central American republicans to take from us the responsibilities that we were too timid to take—has borne its fruits."

Mr. Roosevelt paused and glared into the roaring open fire for a minute. Then he got into his stride.

SHOULD USE REGULAR ARMY.

"In the past," he said, "Carranza, whom President Wilson has recognized as forming the government of Mexico, had done to our people just exactly such things as these Villastas have done.

"It is not a year since Mr. Wilson sent General Scott down to the border to make a treaty with Villa—who had already committed outrages of this kind and outrages not only against men, but against women.

"President Wilson has permitted these different banded factions to get from us—or with permission, the arms with which they have killed American private citizens, American soldiers and the husbands and fathers of the women whom they have outraged.

"There is a hundred times more justification for interference in Mexico than there was for interference in Cuba. We should have interfered years ago. We should act through the regular army for this kind of work is not the work for volunteers.

"We should act with the same efficiency and the same disinterestedness we showed in Cuba. And the man to do the job is General Wood, the man who did the job in such fine shape in Cuba.

SS POLICY EFFECTS.

"But in noting the effect of 'watchful waiting' in Mexico do not forget the effect in the world war of our policy of being too proud to fight.

"The dispatches from Washington indicate that the pressure of the English fleet has caused Germany and Austria to believe it safe to carry on further submarine warfare against helpless passenger ships.

"The dispatches indicate that, having been forced by the British navy to abandon the practices of wholesale murder of noncombatants and women and children on the high seas, they intend to make believe they have abandoned it at President Wilson's request, with as a bargain in return pressure by Wilson upon Great Britain.

"Remember that the New York World, Mr. Wilson's own organ, on August 22 last, published documents from the German embassy, setting forth that a man, known as 'M. P.,' had stated to the German embassy that he was authorized by President Wilson to say that if they would make some disavowal of the Lusitania business, President Wilson would carry through the protest against Great Britain to the uttermost.

BARGAINED FOR VOTES.

"Some of the professional German-American leaders have announced that if this were done and the bargain carried out, President Wilson would gain the entire German-American vote.

"As a matter of fact eleven months have gone by since President Wilson notified Germany that he would hold her to a 'strict accountability' if she sank these ships.

"Eight months have gone by since the Falaba, and later the Lusitania, was sunk. Ship after ship has been sunk, until the total lives lost exceeds 2,200, and President Wilson has done nothing except write notes, each note being followed by a fresh outrage.

"It is too late now for Germany to contend that she abandons these practices because of President Wilson's notes or for President Wilson to pretend his timid huckstering about prices of lives of American citizens is even, in the smallest degree, the reason why Germany abandons this practice—if she does abandon it.

MURDER FOLLOWS WARNING.

"It is worth while calling attention to the State Department's assertion today that it had warned Americans to keep out of Mexico.

"In this respect President Wilson is copying the example of Ambassador von Bernstorff, when he warned Americans to keep off the Lusitania. Each warning was followed by murder, but it is at least to be said of the German ambassador that the murders of which he gave warning were of citizens of a foreign land. In President Wilson's case warning was followed by the murder of citizens of our own land.

"We did nothing when our citizens were murdered on the high seas by Germany. Apparently we intend to do nothing about citizens that have been murdered by Mexico. Remember that President Wilson had recognized the Mexican government, which he nevertheless so distrusted that he warned our citizens that at the peril of their lives they must not stay in Mexico.

EXPECTS EVIL DAY.

"Meanwhile for three years our army and navy have deteriorated and Messrs Bryan, Kitchin, Hay and other party associates of President Wilson seem bent on rivalling one another as to which can most successfully obstruct the purpose of the American people to prepare for their own defence.

"And President Wilson is himself responsible for the fact that during the eighteen months since the great war begun not one step towards preparedness has been taken.

"When the great war ceases we shall have earned the contemptuous dislike of every combatant, and if we do not do our duty in Mexico, one or all of them will surely seize Mexico themselves.

"Thanks to this administration our people may have ahead of them a most evil day of reckoning, when the warring powers are free to return their attention to us.

"I say, may, but as a matter of fact I believe that the evil day will surely come unless our government abandons its attitude of criminal fatuity as regards both preparedness and international duty."

Roosevelt Thanks the American for Its Editorial on Mexico

(The editorial is printed on today's editorial page of the Boston American.)

Oyster Bay, Jan. 13, '16.

AS an American I wish heartily to thank the New York American for that editorial this morning. IT TELLS THE EXACT TRUTH, and tells it as forcibly and powerfully as it ought to be told. There never was a baser and meaner sentiment, couched in a single phrase, than that of being too proud to fight. And the administration has acted on that sentiment.

WE HAVE INCURRED THE CONTEMPT OF THE WORLD; and contempt is the forerunner of aggression. Because, as the American says, every brutal creature in the world is glad to kick a coward.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

U. S. Should Have Acted on Mexico Long Ago—T. R.

THERE is a hundred times more justification for interference in Mexico than there was for interference in Cuba. We should act through the regular army for this kind of work is not the work for volunteers.

We should act with the same efficiency and the same disinterestedness we showed in Cuba. And the man to do the job is General Wood, the man who did the job in such fine shape in Cuba.

In noting the effect of 'watchful waiting' in Mexico do not forget the effect in the world war of our policy of being too proud to fight.

—From Colonel Roosevelt's statement to James J. Montague on the Mexican situation.

FRENCH WAR MACHINE HIGHLY DEVELOPED

By C. F. BERTELLI,

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE FRANCO-BELGIAN ARMY IN FLANDERS, Jan. 14.—More than $40,000,000 worth of automobiles, calculating them at an average price of $1,000 each, are running up and down France securing speedy communication between the front and the rear of the army.

Every conceivable make is represented and every size and every shape, from a huge wagon capable of carrying several tons of ammunition to a Paris motor bus and from a [illegible] smart limousine with the swiftest and most silent six-cylinder engine to the baby runabout used by special messengers.

REPAIRS AT FRONT.

Everything has been pressed into service without sparing the cost to make this wonderfully perfect part of the war machine.

The vehicles have to travel over the worst imaginable roads, but it is remarkable that only 25 per cent are under repair in the huge automobile camp which I have just visited.

Each army possesses one of these camps. It is a novel feature of an army organization. Up to two months ago machines needing repairs had to be sent to garages in the nearest large city. To avoid loss of time regular factories equipped with every kind of machinery for automobile construction have been built behind each army. They consist of about a dozen enormous wooden sheds covered with water-proof canvas.

Electricity is made on the spot and operates all the lathes. Two hundred mechanics work night and day in two shifts. Spare parts of every description for every make of car, countless tires, lamps, headlights and every possible accessory are kept in large stock.

READY FOR ADVANCE.

Everything is so arranged that the whole camp, including the sheds, can be moved bodily to another part of the country within a week.

Emergency work shops composed of three automobile wagons carrying all repair tools and an ample supply of spare parts are kept in perpetual readiness should the army suddenly advance.

The cost of maintaining this fleet of 60,000 cars on the road and in repairs run into nine figures, but is a mere bagatelle in the long list of huge war expenditures.

The strictest French military secret of the whole war is the number of men mobilized. During my tour of the front I have obtained an explanation of why so many are maintained on the army payroll when it is utterly impossible to throw all of them on the firing line. It is that the defensive organization necessary for trench warfare necessitates the employment of more workers than the total number of actual fighting men.

ARMY OF FRENCH WORKERS.

Back of and connecting the 500 miles of first, second and third line trenches extending from the sea to Switzerland are somewhat more than 12,500 miles of communicating trenches or boyaux, as they are termed. It is not only necessary to dig these subterranean passages, sometimes to a depth of twenty-five feet, but millions of men are constantly employed in keeping them in efficient condition, shoring them up to prevent a collapse, draining, modifying their direction, etc., as well as building and maintaining roads.

This work employs a very important proportion of France's manhood, aside from the large number of men drafted to the fighting army.

The enormous drain of money and energy involved by these communications, which are only an adjunct of the actual fighting, is one of the heaviest economical burdens of the war imposes on France.

MEAT SUPPLY CONSERVED.

Further preparations by France for a long war are reflected in the policy which she has adopted of conserving her own cattle while importing refrigerated meat from the New World.

The experiment at first was very much against the taste of the soldiers, many of whom refused to eat refrigerated meat, a food up to then almost unknown in France. Their prejudice, however, soon faded, and I have personally satisfied myself that one and all now relish cold storage meat as much as fresh meat.

Everyone's opinion now is that refrigerated beef is excellent, and that the perfected methods of handling it from the packing house to the trench insure its arrival at the French ovens in the best possible condition.

At the same time all the cattle in France have been registered, and form part of the huge stock which is kept in reserve against possible future difficulties of obtaining supplies from overseas.

In my tour along the northern front I have seen the immense killing and packing plant which supplied one army. Similar installations stand at the rear of each of the others. Here pigs and sheep are collected and slaughtered, cut up and distributed, fresh or slightly salted, to each of the individual sections daily.

Special light railroads insure rapid transportation between the various departments. Scrupulous cleanliness and the best sanitary conditions prevail everywhere. The slaughterhouses, quartering departments and hanging rooms, the huge kitchens and the tanneries are run with military precision under the orders of a large staff of specialists, assisted by competent veterinarians.

Nothing is wasted. From the liver, blood, brains, heads, feet, etc., tasty delicatessen are made, cooked by famous French chefs and packed according to the lastest Chicago methods by specialists. All this is immediately dispatched on army motor wagons to the various parts of the front, where it is speedily distributed to the innumerable rear and trench kitchens.

BOMB-PROOF KITCHENS.

These trench kitchens are the latest feature of the comforts provided for the soldiers. They are to be found even in the front line trenches.

They are built inside of bomb-proof dugouts according to the latest devices and provide huge cauldrons for three different kinds of food as well as a large oven capable of roasting to perfection several quarters of mutton at a time.

I have tasted the soldiers' food and found it excellent. In fact, I was invited to dinner by a division commander who served at my request all the kinds of delicatessen which I had shortly before seen made up. I found it as good as any I had had in first-class Paris restaurants.

This is supplied to the soldiers now and then to vary their diet. The officers' mess is in fact furnished with the same food that is given to the men.

MAILS CENSORSHIP REVEALS SPY PLOT

London, Jan. 14.—The recent inauguration of a censorship upon both outgoing and incoming American mails has already produced results, according to officials, in the form of a revelation of a widespread espionage plot, which the officials declare has amply justified the organization of the large department necessary to carry out the work.

According to evidence revealed by the opening of American mail, it is stated, an organization of spies here has been sending information to an American branch, which forwarded it to Germany by various routes, chiefly by one through Holland.

BERLIN ELATED BY AUSTRIAN VICTORY

By International News Service.

Berlin, Jan. 14.—German newspapers, commenting on the conquest of Mount Loveen, point out its political significance, the Austrians having made impossible what the Italians considered as the war's principal object, the domination of the Adriatic. The papers call attention to the fact that Italy, before she entered the war, established as the principal condition for her neutrality that Austria should not attack Mount Loveen.

A SPOONFUL OF SALTS RELIEVES ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, says noted authority.

If back hurts or Bladder bothers, stop all meat for a while.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life-saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

In Treating Tuberculosis

it should be remembered that one of the aids to relief is found in abundance of fresh air—day and night—the largest possible freedom from overexertion, and well-cooked, pure food.

Attention to these should do much toward arresting the progress of the malady, but in many cases there is need for extra help. Where Nature has to work with a weakened body her power is limited. Before she can do her most, there must be a return to normality of functions.

Under such circumstances, try Eckman's Alterative, which has been used with large benefit by many sufferers from tuberculosis. In numerous cases it has helped to bring about recovery.

And since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, its use is not attended with danger. Sold by all Liker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

4 ARRESTED AS GERMAN SHIP FUGITIVES

By International News Service.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 14.—Four Germans, all members of the German navy who are said to have escaped from German warships interned in United States waters, were arrested here today by federal agents. Two of the Germans were employed upon a United States dredge boat which was engaged in work upon coast fortifications.

The men arrested gave the following names: Karl Altmann, Emil Klatstein, Fred Kruger and Karl Ehrmann.

Altmann and Klatstein were at work upon the dredge when federal warrants were served upon them.

Ehrmann and Kruger were employed at the Bancroft Textile Mills and lived at a boarding house known as Bancroft Hall, which is within a stone's throw of the Hagley yards plant of the du Pont Powder Works.

The arrests were made by William O. Crimmons and Larvey Davis, following an investigation which is thought to have been inspired by the numerous explosions at the du Pont Powder Factory.

Originally the federal authorities had only one warrant, but further investigation revealed the fact that there were at least four Germans in this neighborhood who were wanted for breaking their parole and fleeing from interned German warships. Three more warrants were secured, and after the arrests the men were taken to Gloucester City, N. J.

The dredge upon which Altmann and Klatstein were employed was doing work upon Fort du Pont, a United States coast defence.

DUTCH STEAMER IS WRECKED BY MINE

London, Jan. 14.—The Dutch steamer Maashaven, 2,600 tons, from Norfolk to Rotterdam, has struck a mine, according to a wireless picked up at Scheveningen, forwarded by Reuter's correspondent at The Hague. The crew is reported to have abandoned the vessel, which was still afloat with her forecastle ablaze.

BIG MUNITIONS CARGO ON ADRIATIC

Deschanel Warns French Deputies Against Clashes

By International News Service.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Paul Deschanel, who was re-elected president of the Chamber of Deputies, stated in his address to the chamber:

"Germany in order to divert the world's attention from her increasing difficulties is trying to represent your legitimate discussions as party quarrels. You will avoid giving her a pretext for such charges.

"Some criticisms made against the chamber are unjustified. For instance, you have never attempted to mix yourselves up with military operations or diplomatic negotiations, both of which the government has conducted with complete independence.

"More than a century ago Napoleon stood with Minister Fontaine in Fontainbleu. The shadow of misfortune was already descending upon him. Seizing the minister's arm, he said sadly:

"'What I admire most in the world is the powerlessness of material forces. In the end the sword has always been beaten by an idea.'

"France can say today that strength is limitable and perishable like matter, but justice is immortal, like the genius of France."

Deschanel paid a tribute to the memory of five deputies fallen on the battlefield and condoled with some 200 of the deputies who were mourning for their kin killed in war.

RUSSIANS ADVANCE ABOVE CZERNOWITZ

Petrograd, Jan. 14.—On the middle Stripa River the Austrians, under the protection of a snow storm, made two attempts to take the offensive in the region of Dobropol, but each time were repulsed. In this region and northeast of Czernowitz the Teutons were forced to evacuate trenches which the Russians occupied.

BRITISH BAN ON DIAMONDS FOR U. S.

New York, Jan. 14.—Great Britain will not permit diamonds to be shipped to America from any British port unless the sender agrees:

1—To ship the diamonds to the British Consul-General in New York.

2—That any goods from Holland or other countries than Great Britain shall also be sent to the British Consul-General in New York.

3—That the British Consul-General shall have access to the shipers' "sales records and other documents, showing the disposal of the diamonds."

4—That all industrial diamonds sold to persons outside New York City shall be handed over to Mr. R. C. Monro, No. 452 Fifth avenue, who will send the diamonds by registered mail to the purchaser. The purchaser must send payment for the diamonds to Mr. Monro.

The "Diamond Guarantee" says that Mr. Monro will be in his office on Tuesdays and Fridays between the hours of 2 and 4. If the jeweler desires to sell diamonds to an out-of-town customer on any other day in the week he must explain to his customer that Mr. Monro's other affairs prohibit it.

5. That the diamonds sent at the time of signing the agreement, or "any other diamonds that may be in the possession of the sender now or hereafter, shall not be sold or given to any person IN THE UNITED STATES without previously obtaining the SANCTION OF THE BRITISH CONSUL-GENERAL, and without supplying him with a satisfactory guarantee from the purchase."

These agreements are excerpts from the British "Diamond Guarantee," which must be signed before the diamonds shipped from a British port can be obtained from the British Consul-General's office in Whitehall street.

R. L. Nosworthy, British Vice-Consul, declared that England takes this attitude to prevent diamonds reaching Germany, where they are in great demand for commercial purposes.

The "Diamond Guarantee" is brought into prominence by the announcement by Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, of his desire for an investigation of this "British interference with American trade."

Senator Stone cites the case of Robert Perlman, a Chicago jeweler. Perlman complains he shipped diamonds to Chicago from London, and that he found the diamonds in the offices of the British Consul-General in New York.

As explained by Mr. Nosworthy, an American sending diamonds from any English port to America must agree that the jewels be sent to the Consul-General in New York. There, before getting his diamonds, the owner must sign the "Diamond Guarantee" set forth above.

"Perlman shipped commercial diamonds," declared Mr. Nosworthy. "He signed an agreement in London to have the diamonds shipped to us. We are quite willing to let him have the stones provided he can assure us that they will not find their way to Germany.

"Diamonds, classified as commercial, are extremely valuable in the manufacture of military and naval instruments. They are almost essential to certain lines of manufactures. There is an embargo upon diamonds. It is the right of a nation at war to place an embargo upon such necessary commodities.

TO BAR EXPORTATION.

"Great Britain modified the absolute embargo by permitting diamonds to be shipped to America provided there was that assurance they would not be exported. We are not tampering with American trade. We have no desire to incur the enmity of Senator Stone or of any other person in America. We are reasonable in our stand.

"I am not empowered to speak officially but I should like to draw attention to the fact that Mr. Runciman's 'German boycott' speech in the House of Commons has no bearing upon this diamond embargo. This embargo obtained long before Mr. Runciman gave utterance to the boycott speech.

"Mr. Perlman agreed to the guarantee in London. Now he desired to evade the conditions to which he agreed."

An official, who cannot be quoted by name, told the AMERICAN reporter that Great Britain would resume an absolute embargo upon diamonds unless the American tradesmen agreed to the embargo in its modified form.

Find Socialist Who Called King "Puppet" Guilty

St. John, N. B., Jan. 14.

WILFRED GRIBBLE, a Socialist, has been found guilty on both counts of an indictment charging the use of seditious language. One count charged him with speaking of the King as a "puppet," at a recent meeting, and another count alleged that he changed the wording of a recruiting slogan from "Your King and Country Need You" to "Your King and Country Bleed You."

Upon the intimation of counsel for Gribble that he would apply for a reserved case, the prisoner was remanded to jail for a further hearing.

REFUGEE TELLS OF FLIGHT

Peter Mohr, the German stowaway who arrived in Boston aboard the Virginia, after escaping from a camp in France, where he was held as a prisoner of war, will not be barred from the United States by lack of friends to offer him employment, it was learned today.

P. K. Munzenmaier, a restaurant proprietor, was waiting for Mohr with an opportunity for him to distribute familiar German dishes in a downtown establishment. Bernard J. Arntz, owner of a delicatessen store in South Boston, was also on hand with promises of assistance.

STORY OF CAPTURE.

Mohr, who is twenty-three years old, gives the following story of his capture:

"I was a member of the Queen Elizabeth regiment and we were advancing on the city of St. Quentin along about noon of August 30. I with fourteen other soldiers got cut off from the main body of troops. Some of the German artillery officers noticed our trouble and began shelling the large detachment of French, who were blocking our way. Shells burst close, and one of our own men was killed and two others were wounded. We ran to a deserted barn for shelter, but the doors were locked, so we tunneled under the wall and got inside.

"Two hours later a body of French came along and they, too, decided to enter the barn. When those in the front ranks discovered us, they appeared greatly frightened and started back, but rallied in a few minutes and advanced as though to kill us. Their officers stopped them, however, and demanded our surrender, pointing out that we were greatly outnumbered and could be easily slaughtered.

DECIDES TO ESCAPE.

"I was marched about to various places, and finally sent to the French camp at St. Nazaire, where I worked in the coal mines. We were worked very hard and it was almost unbearable at times. Finally fourteen of us decided to escape. We waited until one noon when all the other prisoners and the guards were eating, and then quietly slipped out. I expected a bullet would whizz by my head any minute, but fortunately the French soldiers were more intent on eating than on watching us.

"We decided to get aboard a Norwegian vessel, but I got separated from the others. I made my way to the harbor finally, and got aboard the Virginia. I was at sea five days before the American sailors discovered me. They treated me very kindly and I am glad to be in the United States.

Italians May Move to Aid Montenegrins

Rome, Jan. 14.—Italian troops may be ordered to proceed to the relief of the hard pressed Montenegrins within twenty-four hours. King Victor Emmanuel has summoned military chiefs and members of the cabinet into conference on the Montenegrin situation.

The King's hurried return from the Italian front after an eight months' absence from Rome was causing alarming reports of the progress of the Austrian invasion. On reaching Rome his Majesty at once sent for Baron Sonnino, foreign minister, with whom he was in conference until a late hour.

The Montenegrin Crown Prince, Danilo Alexander, and the Crown Princess Jutto reached Rome from Cettinje a few hours before the King arrived from the front. They visited Baron Sonnino and later were received in audience by King Victor Emmanuel, to whom they presented an appeal for the Montenegrin King, Nicholas.

It was rumored that Queen Helena, a daughter of the Montenegrin ruler and a sympathizer with her people, is playing a leading role in the conferences that may cause a startling change in affairs in the Balkans.

Queen Helena, it was reported in official circles, sent the telegram that brought King Emmanuel rushing back from the front. She dispatched it when news reached Rome that Mt. Loveen, dominating Cettinje, was about to fall and that the Montenegrin capital itself could not hold out long against the invaders.

CETTINJE PREY OF TEUTONS

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 14.—With the Austrians before the gates of her capital, Montenegro is reported today to have entered an armistice with Austria. It is believed that King Nicholas, now that his country is overrun and Cettinje, his capital, dominated by the Austrian cannon on Mount Loveen, will give up the fight.

Austro-Hungarian troops in Montenegro have occupied Kuk, the Montenegrin legation announced today.

The Montenegrin government has evacuated Cettinje, according to a dispatch to the Paris Intransigeant. The Austrian official statement reports that on Wednesday Austrian troops were fighting within six miles of the city.

The subjection of Montenegro brings to an end all of Italy's hopes for complete domination of the Adriatic, unless early steps are taken for the relief of the little kingdom. Montenegro's Adriatic littoral, dominated by Mount Loveen, adjoins the great Austrian base at Cattaro, from which point all of Austria's offensive naval campaigns have been launched. It was for this reason that Austria spent so many men in the subjection of Montenegro.

How disastrous the Austrian victory has been for Italy can be seen from the following article in the London Times:

"Italy's interests in Montenegro are as important as England's in the opening of the Dardanelles. The prospective annihilation of Montenegro will have far-reaching maritime consequences in the eastern Mediterranean.

"Montenegro, like Serbia, has now practically ceased to exist as a nation. It is believed that her capital will soon be removed to alien soil. News agency dispatches today state that King Nicholas and his ministers probably will establish a provisional capital at Scutari, Albania, where the Serbian government is now located."

ENGINEER ON THE BOSTON & MAINE

F. J. Lowell of 24 Dorchester St., Lawrence, Gives Testimonial for Plant Juice.

If the digestive organs are not properly performing the work that Nature has assigned them, then nutrition, which is absolutely essential to the recovery of other diseased parts, will be lacking, and there can be no permanent relief. When bodily nutrition is normal, the stomach digests the food, the blood absorbs and carries the nourishment to the different parts of the body, causing the various organs to properly perform their functions. Nature has provided a remedy in the ingredients of Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, now being introduced here. It is purely vegetable and its vitalizing, corrective and reconstructive qualities are so pronounced that beneficial results are noticed from the first day. That this is true, it is only necessary to listen to the statements made daily by local people who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been benefited.

One of the most recent signed testimonials received is from Mr. F. J. Lowell, who resides at No. 24 Dorchester Street, Lawrence, who is a popular and well-known engineer of the Boston & Maine Railroad Co., having been in its employ for the past 14 years and is of the utmost integrity and honesty. He states:

"I have had stomach trouble for the past three years, which took the form of indigestion and dyspepsia. My food fermented in my stomach and caused gas with great distress after eating. I had dreadful pains in the pit of my stomach, had headaches, dizzy spells so that I would fall down on the floor, was constipated most of the time, liver was torpid and I was so nervous and restless I could not sleep at night. I have now taken three bottles of Plant Juice and it has made a new man of me, for I feel completely cured, can eat any kind of food without distress, have no more headaches, sleep well and will be glad to recommend it to any one."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

GALLIPOLI ARMY IN GREECE

London, Jan. 14.—Allied troops from Gallipoli are being landed at Salonica to re-enforce General Sarrail's army. The Bulgarian authorities estimate that 250,000 Anglo-French forces are now in Greece and that more than 200,000 will be concentrated between Salonica and the Greek border before the end of another week.

The attack of the Teutonic allies on the entente forces defending Salonica is being developed on a large scale, according to the Athens correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia. He reports that the bombardment of the British line to the Doiran zone proceeded all day Monday.

"Our Weakness Invites Attack," Says Phelan, Urging Preparedness

California Senator Says Japan Has Given Fair Notice by Menace and Threat—Strength Is Nation's Only Immunity.

"Basis of Preparedness Must Not Only Be the Trained Soldier, But Also the Training of Citizen Soldiery in the Schools."

By JAMES D. PHELAN,

United States Senator from California.

COPYRIGHTED BY HARRIS and EWING.

U. S. Senator James D. Phelan

There are two views of preparedness—one which would lead the country to prepare to meet an actual or possible danger, and another contemplates the purpose of averting danger by the known ability of the country to repel attack.

The war among civilized nations of Europe has shown the inefficacy of diplomacy and the insecurity of solemn treaty obligations. The strength of a nation seems to be the measure of its immunity from attack, and the ambition, commercial zeal or traditional reason for the declaration of war against another nation which stands in its way.

After the war great armed nations with seasoned troops may seek an opportunity against weaker nations to break down immigration legislation and restrictive laws or to levy forced contributions or to acquire land in order to rehabilitate its national fortunes and pay the expenses of the war.

Mexico was invaded, and the policy and protests of the United States ignored, while our armies were engaged in the Civil War, and when Lincoln was asked to intervene, he said: "Gentlemen, one war at a time," but at the close of the Civil War, Sheridan, at the head of his veteran troops, marched to the Rio Grande and overthrew, by their very presence, the dynasty of Maxmilian.

So, very often after a wasteful war, the soldiery of a country are well prepared to fight certainly against raw levies drawn from a peaceful population, unused to arms.

Japan Gives Warning.

Japan is a powerful and aggressive nation in the Pacific, constantly increasing its army and navy and resentful of our domestic policy, as expressed by the federal naturalization laws, the policy of our government, expressed in the "Gentlemen's Agreement" and the land laws of California.

By menace and threat Japan has given fair notice to the United States, and recently Count Okuma, Premier of Japan, in the New York Sun of December 4, 1915, in unmistakable terms, intimated that Japan would hold the United States responsible for the inequalities imposed upon its people, and fight, if necessary.

California understands the Japanese question, but the East is in need of education. The Japanese are capable of crowding out our white population and making a Japanese colony of the Pacific Coast, and our restrictive laws are simply an expression of the eternal law of self preservation.

Cannot Yield to Japan.

It is preposterous to imagine, in view of this fact, that the United States can yield to Japan and allow her, as in Hawaii, to take peaceful possession of the country and everything for which American institutions stand—domestic life, liberty, property, the school, the church, civic duties and obligations on the part of the people, and their services, even their lives, in time of national need.

There are 55,000 able-bodied Japanese in California, owing loyalty to the Emperor of Japan, who might be called a hostile army already within our gates, because in time of trouble they would, I believe, forcibly array themselves against us. In view of this fact, is it not dutiful and patriotic to strengthen our defences? This is the demand for preparedness.

Now, assuming that there was no immediate danger from any source, still conditions change rapidly, and the taking of American lives by land or sea, dishonoring the flag, or an infringement upon our vital interests, territory and independence, might mean a call to arms, but when we are [illegible], shall there be no arms?

These conditions may be brought about by the simple fact of our unpreparedness. Our weakness will invite attack, so preparedness is not only the sword, but it is the shield. No nation will attack us if we are strong.

More of a Peace Measure.

An insignificant nation might attack us if we are weak; so preparedness shall avert war, and, therefore, is more a peace measure than a war measure. Knowing the genius of our people it is not reasonable to say that a military caste shall be imposed upon us by preparedness.

The basis of preparedness must not only be trained soldiery, properly officered, but in the training of our citizen soldiery in the schools we must develop not only the latent material resources of the nation, but those resources of strength and patriotism which can be found best in the education of the youth, and in the discipline of the man. We must grow strong to defend our country, as our country grows strong in the arts of peace and civilization and in its natural [illegible] industrial wealth, and all things worth preserving.

The duty upon Congress is to provide the co-ordination of all our powers so as to make a complete nation, having within itself the means of development as well as the means of defence.

Power to Enforce Decree.

In the world, as it is organized, these things must grow together until the time comes when we all will hail, when an international court, with proper and adequate sanction, shall settle all disputes, and appeal successfully, by arms, if necessary, to the sense of justice of mankind. I say, arms, if necessary, because the judgment of a court is of no value unless there is some power to enforce its decrees.

This shows as strongly as it can be put to the uncompromising pacificists that arms are even necessary to enforce peace.

Molasses Makes Sticky Rivers in West End Streets

Postmaster Is Ousted; Takes Successor's Job

The Marblehead Selectmen believe fair exchange is no robbery.

Police Chief John F. Williams of that town, a Democrat, was appointed postmaster, to succeed Postmaster Frank W. Goodwin, Republican.

The Selectmen have now given the ousted Goodwin the job of police chief, which Williams is vacating.

The two men simply swap offices. Williams moves from the chief's office over to the new postoffice building. Goodwin crosses his path going the other way.

Williams was appointed police chief in July, 1911, succeeding Chief F. W. Thrasher, who had resigned. Chief Williams acquired local fame by endeavoring to use a European police dog in his work. Dismayed citizens, who feared the dog, protested and the canine sleuth was discarded.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Mark-Down Sale

Of Our Entire Stock

—is the fact that this is a strictly cash store, and our present reductions are from our regular cash prices, which were $3 to $8 lower than charge-account stores were obliged to ask for the same goods.

By doing a cash business, we save our customers many thousands of dollars each year that would otherwise have to be added to our prices in order to maintain a charge-account department with its credit men, clerks, collectors, lawyers and bad-account losses.

So when you read in the papers about mark down sales, just bear in mind that over and above the savings we offer in our reductions from former prices is the further and considerable savings which result from this Live Store's being on a spot-cash basis.

Nor is there any question here about the age or the quality of the merchandise. Everything was new this season and the best of its kind, and everything is now marked down except black and blue suits

Stecher to Show in Boston Next Friday Night

Stecher, the famous Nebraska [illegible] who is regarded as the greatest wrestler [illegible] competition today, will be the big star of George [illegible] carnival in Mechanics Building next Friday night. It will be the first appearance of this wonderful grappler in this section of the country, all his work heretofore having been confined to the West.

Stecher is only twenty-two years old, and although he has been performing but two years, has beaten every wrestler of note he has faced. His greatest asset is the "scissors" hold, with which he has toppled over such stars as Cutler, Americus, Westergaard, Mortinson and Henderson (the Masked Marvel) among others.

Promoter Tuohey is having difficulty in securing an opponent for Stecher. He figures that he will eventually succeed in booking the right man.

April 12 Opening Date Both League Races This Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—It is announced at American League headquarters that the American and National League seasons would open April 12. The two schedules, arranged to avoid conflict of dates, wherever possible, will be drawn up later by Ban Johnson and Barney Dreyfuss. The two schedule experts will confer informally next Saturday.

CHANCE COUNTS ON GETTING IN GAME

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—Frank Chance, the Chicago Cubs' old famous chieftain, who is to get back in the game next Spring as manager of the Los Angeles (Pacific Coast League) club, states that he expects to be in the game as a player many times during the coming season. In the opening game against Vernon he will play first base for the Angels, while Ham Patterson, leader of the Tigers, will play the same position for his team. Chance will also be in often as a pinch hitter.

'Bill' Coe, Back Home, Talks of Sport Abroad

Bill Coe, the B. A. A.'s former [illegible] shot-putter and an athlete known the country over, is back from Europe. He was a caller at the B. A. A. yesterday and recounted to Manager George V. Brown and other old friends his experiences on the other side since the outbreak of the war.

One thing on which Coe agrees with all others is that there will be no Olympic games in England for quite a few years to come. It is hard to find a good amateur runner or jumper anywhere on the British Isles, he says, as the great majority of them have enlisted and are either at the front or have been killed.

Coe, who appears in perfect condition, announced he had quit active competition in the weight events. Since winning the British weight championships in 1912-1913, he has done but little work in that line. Rumor has it strong that Coe is to marry a sister of Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the noted woman golfer of Great Britain.

Regarding the war, "Bill" states that if the British army does not stop sending injured soldiers back to London, the enlistments would be decidedly few.

SEE THAT COMBINATION

It is the certified Saazer Kreis Hops and choice Wisconsin Bottle Beer Malt which mean more to good beer making than a century of theorizing.

Saazer Kreis Hops

Grown in the Province of Saaz, Bohemia, they are the choicest and most expensive of the world's hops. Their brewing and medicinal properties have long been recognized. Scientists and physicians claim the Lupulin in Saazer Hops is marvelous in relieving nervous and digestive ailments.

The American Medical Association Journal, April 7, 1906, says:

"No injurious bacteria can live in a beer which contains the Lupulin of Saazer Hops."

These are the hops that give the tone to Fenway.

Choice Malt

The choice malt mentioned in Fenway advertisements is the choice Wisconsin bottle beer malt, the superiority of which is recognized by all brewers. Selected from the best barley, the hardiest of cereals, it gives to the brew the sound nourishing extracts which build up the body and sustain the health.

It is the malt that made the celebrated Dr. Wiley say:

"Good beer is a veritable food product." Beers brewed with choice malt should be in every home.

It looks for all the world like another conquest for Champion De Oro, in fact, for [illegible] to come along and beat out the [illegible] he will be called upon [illegible] of the most phenomenal [illegible] pulled at three cushion [illegible] sort of a game, for that [illegible]

[illegible]

The game so far has taken 111 innings, so the titleholder's average of more than 1 for the first fifty points has been reduced.

Last night['s] play, [illegible] seen by a none too lavish [illegible], was brilliant in the extreme. De Oro put up his usual high-class performance, while Jevne at times played star billiards. Dope on the encounter follows:

De Oro—Total 50, high runs, 6, 3, 4.
Jevne—Total 38, high runs, 5, 3, (3).

NATE SHERMAN OUT TO PULL COME-BACK

Nate Sherman, the well-known New England sprinter and one of Dartmouth's old stars, is a late entrant in tomorrow night's open handicap meet in the B. Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Sherman, after spending two years at Key West, Fla. and putting that city on the map, athletically speaking, is now living at Attleboro. He has not competed in a handicap meet since 1911, but is confident he is as fast as ever.

BRICKLEY BARRED BY TRINITY RULING

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 14.—The much talked about George Brickley, who played baseball with Connie Mack's Athletics for a short time last year and whose presence on last Fall's football eleven caused several colleges to drop Trinity off their schedules, will be ineligible to compete in any more sport at the local college, as a result of the new set of athletic eligibility rules adopted by Trinity. Among other things, it is provided that no student shall represent Trinity in athletics who has been a member of a classified baseball league under the National Commission. This is directly aimed at Brickley.

A drawing, showing one view of the rise of man, as attested by the finding of fragments of skulls of past ages in certain strata of the earth's surface

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

HOW old is the human race? Six thousand [illegible] twenty-five thousand, one [illegible] two hundred and fifty [illegible] hundred thousand years [illegible] some of the many answers that have been given within the [illegible].

Very few persons [illegible] accept the first of these estimates, which formerly was almost universally regarded in Christian countries as resting upon divine authority. The evidence afforded by geology demands several tens of thousands of years, at least. But this evidence is incomplete and inexact for several reasons, one of which is that it is difficult to fix, with certainty, the precise location in the strata of the earth's crust of some of the ancient human remains [illegible] found, while another [illegible] disagreement of [illegible] concerning the char[illegible] earliest of the sup[illegible].

A difficulty of [illegible] arises from [illegible] limits of a [illegible] measure of years [illegible] record. The geo[illegible] certain strata were formed earlier or later than cer[illegible] but he can o[illegible] probable estimates concerning the number of centuries required for the formation [illegible] can be no d[illegible] human race [illegible] older than [illegible] have elapsed [illegible] began.

Every year the [illegible] clearer that [illegible] of men lived [illegible] any historical records were made [illegible] thought of. The great [illegible] division [illegible] between [illegible] paleolithic [illegible] those of the [illegible] stone age.

The paleolithic [illegible] lived during [illegible] intervals between [illegible] periods, when [illegible] northern [illegible] less covered with [illegible] and when arctic, or [illegible] prevailed where now temperate conditions exist.

Those [illegible] representatives of our race [illegible] amongst animals which are [illegible] longer found [illegible] temperate [illegible] have become extinct upon the earth. Certain spe[illegible] hyenas, and [illegible] for instance, are known to have been contemporary with the men of the old stone age, and even to have inhabited some of the caverns which were, then, the only permanent shelters that man possessed.

We know as surely as we can know anything that men, reindeer, mammoths, lions, tigers, rhinoceroses, etc., lived together, at different times, in southwestern Europe, where none of the animals mentioned are now found except in menageries.

One of the greatest puzzles about early man is the fact that some of the very oldest human skulls that have been found [illegible] able [illegible] men of [illegible] seem to have had [illegible] the average of today [illegible] called [illegible] larger skulls than the average [illegible] of today [illegible] others whose skulls [illegible] of apes or monkeys.

This difference has led to the [illegible] position that there were [illegible] two principal races of [illegible] one greatly superior to the [illegible]. The entire subject is of [illegible] interest, largely because of [illegible] mystery which it involves. [illegible] some evidence that the [illegible] man-like creatures [illegible] were of the ape-like species [illegible] that those having large skulls of the true human type came later.

The oldest remains suspected to be human are probably those of the celebrated "pithecanthropus," found in Java, in 1891. An antiquity of as much as half a million years has been assigned to the fragments of a skull, and a few other bones, which are all that could be collected, of the Java "ape-man." But authorities differ in regard to the precise location of this relic in the geological series, although all are in accord concerning its very great [illegible].

[illegible] many of the [illegible] skulls of the new stone age [illegible] which distinguishes certain races of today in [illegible] they are "[illegible]ocephalic," [illegible] means "long-headed." Round, [illegible] short-headed men are called "[illegible]cephalic." [illegible] kinds [illegible] but [illegible] times [illegible] been inhab[illegible] the long-[illegible].

[illegible] depths of [illegible] yet [illegible] make a [illegible] Eng[illegible] that the neolithic period in Europe probably lasted about ten thousand years, and that it was succeeded by the "bronze age" about 2,000 years before Christ. After that came the "age of iron" leading up to the historic ages.

Highly interesting is the fact that the tombs constructed by men of the later stone age afford reason for thinking that a belief in the im[illegible] among men at that early time.

A Real Misfortune

[illegible] continually being laughed at, their misfortunes are turned into subjects for idle jesting, nobody takes them seriously. And yet their troubles are very real—very much like those of other people.

Here is a case in point.

Wordsworth Jones, who had just [illegible] room, [illegible] state of [illegible].

"My poems. My precious parcel of poems!" he exclaimed tremulously to the stately porter.

"[illegible] lost anything, sir?" [illegible] person, as though he had not heard a word.

"My roll of sonnets," faltered W. [illegible] writing room [illegible] is [illegible].

[illegible] cushions were lifted, drawers were slammed opened and shut, page-boys and [illegible] but never a sign of the missing treasures came to light.

Jones was nearly distracted. Even [illegible] porter was touched by his very genuine distress.

"[illegible] write the poems again," [illegible] he queried.

"Yes! No! I don't know!" wailed [illegible]. "And I don't care! But there was a ham sandwich [illegible] in them!"

Helen [illegible] the door [illegible] she [illegible] Ned followed her to the dining room.

[illegible] Ned [illegible].

"Because I was [illegible] to see [illegible] why I [illegible]."

"[illegible]" said Helen in her most frigid tones.

"Not which I wanted to so much. Put on your things and we'll take in a show."

"Certainly not; do you think that I would do a thing like that behind Warren's back?"

"Would you do it if he were here?"

"Are you really so devoted, Helen, [illegible] that would not admit to a feeling of wickedness once in a while?"

[illegible] really displeased the kindest thing would be to leave me."

"I will, if you will come with me."

Helen did not know what to do. She dreaded entertaining Ned in her apartment alone, and yet she hated to go out with him.

NED IS UNMOVED

Ned spread some bread with [illegible] and proceeded to eat it. The situation was unbearable and Helen felt her impotence severely. Somehow, she thought desperately, there must be [illegible] know what [illegible].

"[illegible]" "I'll go [illegible] but you are not [illegible] game."

"Oh, now, Helen, [illegible] mean that," said Ned in his [illegible] tones. "I don't want you to feel that way. [illegible] Why [illegible] to find you. I have always [illegible] Helen, you know that [illegible] might have [illegible] and then I found I had lost you."

"Ned, please stop, you have no right to speak this way."

"Helen, I care for you [illegible] that."

"Stop, Ned. I want you to go, please. Nothing that you can say [illegible] in my own house [illegible] absence."

"Please, Helen, listen to me." But Helen turned away. She was trembling and held on to the table to steady herself. [illegible] thing [illegible] And she was the woman who had wished something out of the ordinary to happen, the woman who had tried to play off Ned Burns against her own husband.

The clock in the hall struck nine, and almost immediately the bell rang. Helen started and then turned white. Ned looked uncomfortable and they stood gazing at the door as if dumfounded. Then Helen recovered her senses.

[illegible] to the door and [illegible] determinedly. Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] stood on the threshold.

"We thought we'd take advantage [illegible] and see if you didn't want to play a rubber of bridge," said Mrs. Thurston breezily.

MRS. THURSTON SPEAKS OUT

"Of course we can," said Helen gayly. "Warren has gone to Norfolk, but Mr. Burns, a friend of the family, is here, and he is a great bridge player."

The Thurstons must not suspect anything, and the game would have [illegible].

"Wait a minute, dear," she called to Mrs. Thurston, "and I will be with you. I want you to meet Mr. [illegible]" [illegible].

"Mr. Thurston, this is Mr. Burns, an old friend of Warren's and mine." The two men shook hands and Helen went back to her room and kept up a running conversation with Mrs. Thurston, who took off her coat and hat and powdered her nose.

"We are going to take a new apartment next week," she announced calmly and then "My dear, who is this [illegible] that you are entertaining while poor Warren is out of the way? Looks strange to me."

Mrs. Thurston said this lightly, but Helen [illegible] until [illegible] to the button.

"[illegible] of ours, dear. You [illegible] Warren [illegible] unexpectedly [illegible] Ned [illegible] came anyway."

As she [illegible] this information Helen remembered the study table. [illegible] there [illegible] nothing [illegible].

Ned and Mr. Thurston had opened the bridge table and were getting out the cards and the scores. Ned, [illegible] gone before, was his own charming self, and Helen admitted that he could be attractive, especially to [illegible]. He was [illegible] to Mrs. Thurston [illegible] Helen [illegible] never tried to overstep the bounds. The evening passed very pleasantly.

Ned left with the Thurstons [illegible]. Helen, weak and trembling, [illegible] to bed with a [illegible]. She [illegible] that Warren would [illegible] hear of it. If he did he might put any construction he liked [illegible] incident and she would have no defence at all.

In Our Wonderful World

THE shamrock appears once to have been an Irish national dish. It is no longer eaten, but in 1598 Fynes Moryson picturesquely relates that "the Irish willingly eat the herb [illegible], being of a sharp taste, which as they run and are chased to and fro, they snatch like beasts out of the ditches." This picture is racy of the soil, and, whether the statement be true or not, we thank the author for it, says a writer in the Globe. According to the generally accepted belief, the shamrock was adopted as the national emblem of the Irish because it was the instrument selected by St. Patrick when explaining to his countrymen the doctrine of the Trinity. By a strange chance of language the trefoil in Arabic is called "shamrack," and in Iran the shamrack was held sacred as being the emblem of the Persian Triads. When we recall that Pliny, in his "Natural History," declares that serpents avoid the trefoil, it seems peculiarly appropriate that St. Patrick, who drove these reptiles from the Emerald Isle, should have chosen the shamrock as his emblem.

A remarkable fish known as Protopterus annectens is found throughout the whole of tropical Africa, but is most common near the West Coast, where it sometimes attains a length of six feet. During the dry season, when many of the ponds dry up, the fish descends some distance into the [illegible] and forms a rounded hollow for a nest, which is lined by a capsule of hardened mucus secreted by the glands of the skin. It [illegible] thus for nearly six months drawing its sustenance from the [illegible] secreted when it is active.

Many people, unless actually familiar with the [illegible] of the native of India, have little idea as to how superstitious [illegible] of these people are, especially with regard to their "caste" system.

Not very long ago [illegible] passing through the jungle [illegible] was severely mauled by a bear. His comrades, however, although they knew that a few miles distant there was a well-equipped hospital, conveyed him to a village where he was kept without medical assistance and in a blazing sun for three days.

When eventually brought into the hospital the man's plight may be better imagined than described. The surgeon and his assistants managed to keep him alive, but his face is so disfigured that he is known in the district as the "reache wallah" (bear man).

The most extraordinary thing about this case is that the unfortunate person was, during the time he lay in the hospital, considered by the fraternity to be unclean, with the result that his own wife was, through attending to his requirements, thrown out of "caste."

CREAMED SALT COD FOR BREAKFAST

Soak one-half pound of boneless salt fish over night. In the morning turn off the water, shred the fish and scald in a little water, adding pepper and butter; thicken one pint of milk with one tablespoon of flour; when milk just comes to a boil, add the fish and serve hot with toasted and buttered crackers.

What Happened to Jane

Reeves Agrees to Spare Her Father

In everything Jane tried to do just what Augustus asked.

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XLVII.

Copyright, 1916, by Star Company

SHE must keep her husband in a good humor for her parents' sake.

Jane repeated this sentence over [illegible] during the days following her visit to her mother. In everything she tried to do just what Augustus wished.

She was sure that the money he had lost in an unfortunate investment had not amounted to much, for he did not remain depressed about it. Yet she asked him timidly if there was any way in which she could economize and thus "make up the difference" to him.

It was at the breakfast table, three days after he had imparted to her the news of his loss, that she put this query. Augustus laid down his knife and fork and looked at her.

[illegible] to be more thoughtful [illegible]

[illegible] mered, despising herself as he expressed his approval, "that perhaps we could live more cheaply if we do. You see, you buy the best of everything, but I'm willing to have plainer food if you want to economize in that way."

[illegible] was devouring in huge mouthfuls. "I like good things to eat [illegible] but I've got lots besides," [illegible] boastfully.

[illegible] seem a lot to you, but that's because your father never had a cent to spare. He never was a success, anyway."

She felt the hot blood [illegible] her cheeks. But for the sake of the man of whom he spoke [illegible] ingly she must not resent this speech.

SHE THANKS MARY

Mary Baird brought Augustus a second cup of coffee. He always drank at least two cups at each meal and Jane forced herself to smile in declining the housekeeper's offer of more for herself.

"No, I thank you, Mary," she said. "But the cup I had was delicious, as your coffee always is."

The grateful gleam to which she was becoming accustomed flashed from the black eyes. When the door had closed behind the woman, Augustus spoke.

"See here, Jane," he [illegible], "don't be too kind to Mary. You'll spoil her if you're not careful."

"Spoil her, Augustus? Oh, no, I don't think so. I praise her cooking occasionally, for she is a good cook, as you have often told me. And I speak pleasantly to her always, of course."

"Well, don't talk too much to her. I like her to be quiet about her work. I wouldn't keep a person who gabbled about her affairs to my wife. Mary don't do that, does she? I mean she don't talk over things with you, does she?"

There was an anxious sound to the question that made the wife look at him, wondering.

"Why, no; she never talks about anything or anybody," Jane replied. "I never knew such a silent person. Isn't she always like that?"

"She always has been," Augustus said, and there was a note of relief now in his tone. "But sometimes when one woman gets with another, she'll talk all the time. And I won't have Mary troubling you that way."

He was [illegible] so careful that she should not be annoyed, Jane reflected. She appreciated that now would be a good time to broach the subject that was on her mind and heart.

"Augustus," she said timidly, "you say you don't like me to be troubled; but I am worried just now."

"What about?" he asked indifferently.

"About mother. She isn't well. She's worrying over the money father owes."

AUGUSTUS SNEERS AT HER

"She ought to be used to that kind of thing by now," Augustus said [illegible]. "He's always owing [illegible] or other, generally several [illegible]. Just now I happen to [illegible] one of them."

"[illegible]" Jane spoke eagerly. "And I want to thank you for [illegible] that money, Augustus. [illegible] I asked [illegible] and she said the note falls due next month."

"Yes it does," he mumbled, his mouth full.

"I hope—I mean I'm afraid, Augustus, that he won't be able to meet it."

"So he's been complaining and [illegible] about that, too, has [illegible]. He began [illegible] I expected him to pay me what he owes me."

"I'm afraid that he can't, Augustus," the wife repeated. "I'm [illegible] sorry [illegible] to [illegible] you [illegible] so much [illegible]. But [illegible] mother is worried, and as you've been so kind [illegible] wondering if perhaps you would mind waiting just a little longer for"——

"[illegible] I'd give him unlimited time to do nothing in, eh?" he asked. "No, I won't."

He stopped abruptly. He had never seen Jane's eyes so appealing, had never before seen her look at him with that expression. He did not know that it was love and anguish for her parent, not for him, that had brought that softness to her eyes. His manner changed, and he smiled.

"Well, Jane," he said condescendingly, "since you're trying all you can to please me, I tell you what I'll do. I'll extend that note for another three months."

He pushed his chair back and going around the table, kissed her loudly. He smacked his lips after the salute, as he had smacked them over the cornbread. She wanted to rub her mouth with her napkin, but she dared not.

"But, remember," he warned her, "I will have no more working of you by your father. I'll see him some time this week and tell him what I've told you. But don't forget that hereafter you refuse to talk to him about business. That matter is between him and me, and I won't have you dragged into it."

To Be Continued.

Far More Practical

"Never did see such a boy," remarked Mrs. Puttifer over the back yard fence, referring to Master Puttifer, who was resting against the dust bin writing on [illegible] slate.

"Wonderful boy for writin'," agreed her neighbor.

"Never 'appy without 'is slate," declared Mrs. Puttifer. "Writes beautiful poetry and all sorts o' things. What was that little bit you wrote afore breakfast yesterday, Ebbert?"

"You shot [illegible] never [illegible]
[illegible]
'Cos lots of people what are dead
Have died of bullets in the head," piped the prodigy.

"Well, I never," came from the lady next door. "'E's a second Shakespeare, only better. You'll 'ave to make a poet of 'im, that's certain."

"I dunno," replied Mrs. Puttifer, dubiously. "We've talked it over lots o' times, but, seein' 'e's so fond of 'is slate, 'is father's 'art is set on puttin' 'im in the coal business."

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Winter

These days the face and hands need special care and attention. Strong winds, quick changes of temperature from indoors to outdoors, are severe on the skin. Their despoiling effects are best overcome by the application of pure mercolized wax. This keeps skin and pores in a cleanly condition, the complexion beautifully white and spotless. Chapped, reddened, blotchy and roughened cuticle are actually absorbed by it. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to completely renovate a weather-beaten complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

As the skin tends to expand in a warm atmosphere, checks and chin to sag and wrinkles to form, a good astringent lotion could be used by the woman who keeps pretty much indoors these days. Dissolve one ounce powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in this mornings or before going out for theatre or social affair. It is a remarkable skin tightener and wrinkle eraser.

Mexican Crisis Produces Reactionary Market—London Blockade Threat Against United States Is Another Disturbing Factor on Stocks

WILSON TO FIGHT MUNITION EMBARGO

By BOERSIANER.

While the tendency at the opening was for a continuation of Wednesday's advance, there were a number of industrials that betrayed weakness. A pronounced reactionary trend was shown by the American properties in Mexico, a disposition which might better have been displayed the day before.

Mexican Petroleum, Smelting and the rest carried in their downward train Studebaker, Baldwin, Tennessee Copper, and (distinctly) Steel Common.

The ultimate effect of these irrational declines was to check the rise elsewhere. A few specialties like Crucible Steel held their conspicuous rise, but the rails became nominal, and as a whole ended in a listless and nondescript manner.

It was difficult to suggest an explanation for the delayed depreciation in Mexican stocks. Intervention, armed or political, could not hurt Mexico economically. The economic injury suffered by that unhappy country reached the possible maximum some time ago. Any change, however disastrous, must be for the better.

One diplomatic development offset another.

London announced a more stringent blockade of Germany by Great Britain, to be effective in a fortnight, a move "which will probably have a strong bearing on the United States," to quote the final phrase as it came to banking quarters textually.

The set-off was a wire from a sound source that the administration at Washington would resolutely oppose any and every bill in Congress to put an embargo on war materials.

In scrutinizing the yearly earnings of leading banks, a decided disparity is disclosed. Here and there banks exhibit an increase over 1914 in net returns, despite the relative stagnation in the early part of the year and the low money rates throughout 1915. The reason will be found in the bond item.

Some banks, especially those in New York, bought bonds liberally six months ago. By so doing, the officers secured not only good interest on the money invested, but also made an excellent profit on the purchases, for securities have risen markedly since July.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at the opening with gains extending throughout the list. As a rule advances were not large, but a few issues which have been weak recently sold substantially higher. Opening gians included Mexican Petroleum 1½, Crucible Steel 1¼, Baldwin ⅞, and American Smelting ⅝. The price trend continued upward and within a few minutes the list was on a still higher level. Trading sentiment improved overnight. It seemed to be general belief that bears had reaped all the advantage they could expect from the massacre of Americans in Mexico and the uncertainty it endangered. News from Texas stimulated buying. It is argued that an invasion of Mexico by an American army would send the U. S. government into the market for munitions and all kinds of other products and that the effect would be to expand business still more.

GAINS WERE THE RULE.

At the end of the first fifteen minutes of trading gains not only were the rule but a number of issues had increased earlier advances. The issues of corporations having interests in Mexico were especially active.

Advances at 10:15 included American Can ⅜, American Smelting 1¼, American Sugar ⅛, Anaconda ⅜, Inspiration ⅝, Tennessee Copper ¾, Rock Island ⅝, Erie ⅛, Union Pacific ¼, Northern Pacific ⅛, St. Paul ¼, Atchison ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ⅛, Mexican Petroleum 3, Distillers ¾, Crucible Steel 3, Colorado Fuel 1¼, Baldwin 1¾, American Loco ⅝, Car and Foundry 1¼, Goodrich ⅝, American Coal Products 4½, New York Air Brake 1½, International Mercantile Marine certificates ⅛, and U. S. Steel ½.

Anglo-French bonds were unchanged at 95½.

At the end of half an hour Crucible and Mexican Petroleum had receded a little from their highest and Baldwin had advanced further. The rest of the list was steady. Railroads were quiet.

Some specialties had been very strong, including industrial Alcohol, which advanced more than five, and International Nickle which advanced more than four points.

U. S. SMELTING STRONG.

There was a good tone to the Boston market when it opened and afterward, but business was not of large volume. Among strong local issues were U. S. Smelting and Ventura Oil. Zincs were strong and coppers which were traded in early advanced fractionally.

Among early gains were Butte & Superior ½, Arizona-Commercial ⅛, Tamarack 1, Shattuck-Arizona ¼, New Idrea ½, United Shoe ⅛, U. S. Smelting 1 and Ventura Oil ½.

Copper Range was off ⅛ and Alaska Gold ¼.

Later in the first hour Butte & Superior was up 1¼, American Zinc ½ and the rest of the list was on about its earlier level.

HURT BY REIGN OF TERROR.

Uncertainty as to what is going to happen next in Mexico, and the peril to which Americans are exposed in that unhappy country, is a great disappointment to American financial interests. Many corporations have large interests there, including the Southern Pacific, the Mexican Petroleum Company and the American Smelting and Refining Company. When the United States government recognized General Carranza as de facto power south of the Rio Grande preparations were made to resume oil and ore production on a vast scale.

The Mexican Petroleum Company controls about 600,000 acres of oil land to the west and south of Tampico. Curtailment of its production is a serious matter with petroleum and its products bringing record high prices. Not only have many American corporations been prevented from working Mexican properties by Villa's reign of terror, but there has been property destruction to a great amount.

AMERICAN SMELTING PLANS.

The American Smelting plan had been to resume operations at its smelter in Chihuahua, where seventeen Americans have just been massacred, and several furnaces would have been blown in at once but for that tragedy. Resumption at that plant will be delayed. But the company is said to be determined to reopen its smelters at Metehaula and Aguas Calientes, where Villa outlaws have been keeping quiet. In mining circles, however, it is a question where they will commit outrages next. The company's largest plant in Mexico is at Aguas Calientes, it having there ten furnaces with a gross annual capacity of 720,000 tons. It is almost one-half larger than the American Smelting plant at Leadville, Colorado. This corporation is one of the largest producers of lead, copper and silver. Its 1915 profits will yield, it is estimated, a surplus equal to 10 per cent. on its common stock after dividends have been provided for the preferred issue. But for the shutdown of Mexican plants, the showing would have been even better. Larger profits have been expected for 1916. Metals are selling at the highest prices in years.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

G. W. Field and Co., state that zinc and lead ore production in the Joplin district last year totalled more than $26,000,000 in value and that the 1915 record will probably be surpassed in 1916. "The present output," says this firm in its market letter comment upon National Zinc and Lead, "indicates that this year's ore values will exceed $30,000,000."

Expansion plans of the Chile Copper Company are said to contemplate facilities to produce 500,000,000 pounds of copper a year.

Up to Thursday morning 533,476 shares of the capital stock of the American Woolen Company had been deposited in favor of transferring assets from the new Jersey to the Massachusetts corporation. The change would benefit stockholders, it is believed, as well as make this great company more of a Massachusetts concern. Time for depositing stock for this purpose is up at noon tomorrow. Small holders should be mindful of the importance of immediate action.

Bears have been pounding Crucible Steel, but it is claimed its earnings do not warrant their drives. Crucible's December net was $1,250,000, it is reported from Pittsburgh. It is also said there that the showing for this month will be as good.

Compared with 1914, Pond Creek's December production was an increase of 28,000 tons of coal. Island Creek is producing at the rate of more than 2,200,000 tons per annum.

Frank A. Ruggles, one of the ablest of statisticians, has just issued his "Stock Fluctuations for 1915." It is the sixty-fifth annual edition.

The latest Bank of England report is the best showing it has made for some time. Its proportion of reserve to liabilities increased from 20.95 per cent. from the week previous to 22.46 per cent. It gained £199,000 in bullion.

The Cuban-American Sugar Company has stock market strength because of reports as to its earnings. It earned from $60 to $70 on a share on its common stock last year and is expected to earn more than $100 in 1916.

WOMAN PROBES MAYO'S FINANCES

New York, Jan. 14.—Alleging that Virginius J. Mayo, the New Haven man of many affairs of the heart, said he had "fixed all his money so that she could not get any of it," Miss Wilhelmina Meyers, the Newark heiress, who thought she was Mrs. Virginius Mayo until the real one got a divorce from her husband, has secured an order from the New York Supreme Court for an examination of Mayo to determine his income, insurance and other finances.

Her attorney, Ralph M. Gillett, who is conducting her suit against Mayo for $250,000, said in court that Mayo's income is about $30,000 a year and that his insurance amounts to approximately $1,000,000.

The Committee of Directors of the American Woolen Company of New Jersey would remind the stockholders of the American Woolen Company who have been remiss in depositing the stock of the Company under the agreement of August 14, 1915, which provides for the formation of a Massachusetts corporation, that the final date for depositing will expire at noon on Saturday, the 15th instant, and after that time no further deposits can be accepted and no further extension of time can be granted under this agreement.

THE BLASTER

By B. C. FORBES.

I have killed more men than all the armies of the world.

I have blighted more homes than all the plagues of history.

I have robbed more children of their birthright than all the thieves ever born.

I blast careers.

I am the parent of untold poverty.

I breed diseases.

I spread misery wherever I go.

I am oftentimes the inciter of the recklessness that strews the world with accidents and catastrophes.

I am the most subtle, the most insinuating, the most alluring of tempters.

I wear the guise of joy—of happiness, of gaiety, of good fellowship.

I promise pleasures.

I deliver death.

I charm the rich as easily as the poor.

I am embraced by the educated as often as by the ignorant.

I speak every language.

I know every clime.

I am as old as history.

I am mightier than kings and emperors.

I have driven rulers from their thrones and overturned dynasties.

I can render the strongest armies impotent.

I can sap nations.

I rejoice in bringing dishonor and degradation.

I fill prisons.

I fill insane asylums to overflowing.

I feed hospitals with patients.

I cause more divorces than jealousy can claim.

I am equally powerful in undoing women as in wrecking men.

I am welcomed in every class of society.

I am given a place at the tables of the most cultured and the most exclusive.

I am as equally sought after by the poorest and the most exclusive.

I am so prized that no function of State, no brilliant social gathering, no great public dinner, is accounted complete without my presence.

I am coveted by many governments for the revenue I yield them.

I consume, however, more wealth than has been spent in building all the railroads and all the steamships of the world.

I am the costliest inhabitant in every nation.

I and my activities call for the expenditure of unreckonable millions for prisons and for police forces and courts, for hospitals and for doctors and for nurses, for insane asylums, for almshouses, for orphanages.

I am, however, beginning to be seen in my real colors.

I am being subjected to scientific investigation—and found wanting.

I am falling into moral disrepute.

I can no longer fool the wise.

I have received a body blow from the economic regeneration precipitated by the war.

I have been discovered to be the arch-foe of progress, of strength, of effort, of efficiency.

I have been drummed out of one country with beneficent results which have astounded a world blind to my real character.

I have been curbed in another empire where long I held sway among the masses—men and women—impoverishing them grievously.

I have been barred from nineteen States in this great commonwealth, but though many believe they foresee my doom from end to end of the land I still have many powerful friends whose pockets I fill with my blood money, but whose lives and families I wreck sooner or later.

I have all the forces of evil on my side, and I shall fight to the last ditch.

I can prevail so long as I am allowed to wear my mask.

I cannot hope to endure for a day if I be revealed in all my real hideousness.

I, therefore, summon every enemy of the State, every enemy of the home, every enemy of family life, every enemy of happiness, every enemy of progress, every enemy of decency, every enemy of honor, every enemy of health, every enemy of all that makes life worth while—I summon all these, my supporters and my worshippers, to enroll themselves under my banner of skull and cross bones and so battle for me that I, the arch enemy of mankind and of civilization, shall be victorious over every agency of righteousness.

Who am I?

I AM DRINK.

BURBANK JOINS IN ANTI-WEEKS PROTEST

Former Senator Charles E. Burbank, in a public statement, has condemned the Republican State Committee for its action in indorsing John W. Weeks for President.

Mr. Burbank says that while the primary law was intended to prevent the selection of candidates through the influence of money or machine politics, the action of the State Committee "is redolent with both of these evils."

Mr. Burbank, one of the Progressive leaders of the State, supported Governor McCall in the last campaign and was a member of the Resolutions Committee of the Republican State convention. His statement:

> The action of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee in officially endorsing the candidacy of Senator Weeks for President is to be condemned, and especially so at this time. Voters of the party alone possess the authority to select their candidates through the primaries.
> The Republican State committee is elected by the voters and the powers delegated to it are well understood. Every member of the State committee is of sufficient intelligence and political experience to be aware of the fact that the institution of the primary law was for the express purpose of preventing the selection of candidates through money influence or the influence of machine politics. The endorsement of Senator Weeks by the State committee as an organization is redolent of both these evils.
> Newspaper interviews with members of the committee quote statements unblushingly made that the principal reason for this action was the fact that Senator Weeks and his friends contributed large sums of money toward the expenses of the recent Republican campaign. Members openly state, it is reported, that their main purpose in accepting office in the committee is their desire to aid Senator Weeks in his campaign to secure Massachusetts delegates to the presidential convention.
> This unfortunate and ill-considered action detracts woefully from the enviable position in which the Republican party had placed itself in this State through its endorsement of a program tending to render the government more responsive to the people and party management more in sympathy with the wishes of the rank and file of the voters.
> I believe that the Republican voters of Massachusetts will at the ballot box, when the occasion presents itself, most emphatically express their disapproval of this attempt to dictate the choice of a "favorite son" to whom the Massachusetts delegation shall be openly or secretly pledged.

"The Joy of Having Music in the Home."

This picture tells the story:

The Autopiano

If you have no idle piano—with no one to play it—exchange it for a player-piano, then you can play and enjoy the full pleasure of music. It means that the world's music in operas, hymns, dance music and popular airs can be yours if you say the word. The instrument can be played by hand in the ordinary way or by inserting a roll of music which we furnish FREE of charge, therefore no training in music is necessary.

OUR CO-OPERATIVE PLAYER PIANO CLUB SAVES YOU MORE THAN $100

By joining our club you pay only the "cooperative price"—we'll make a liberal allowance for your piano—and the balance in cash or monthly payments. You receive the Player-Piano at once with a stool or bench and music; freight paid to destination.

Send for illustrated catalogue and membership details of this wonderful plan at once, or call at our warerooms, 181 Tremont st., Boston.

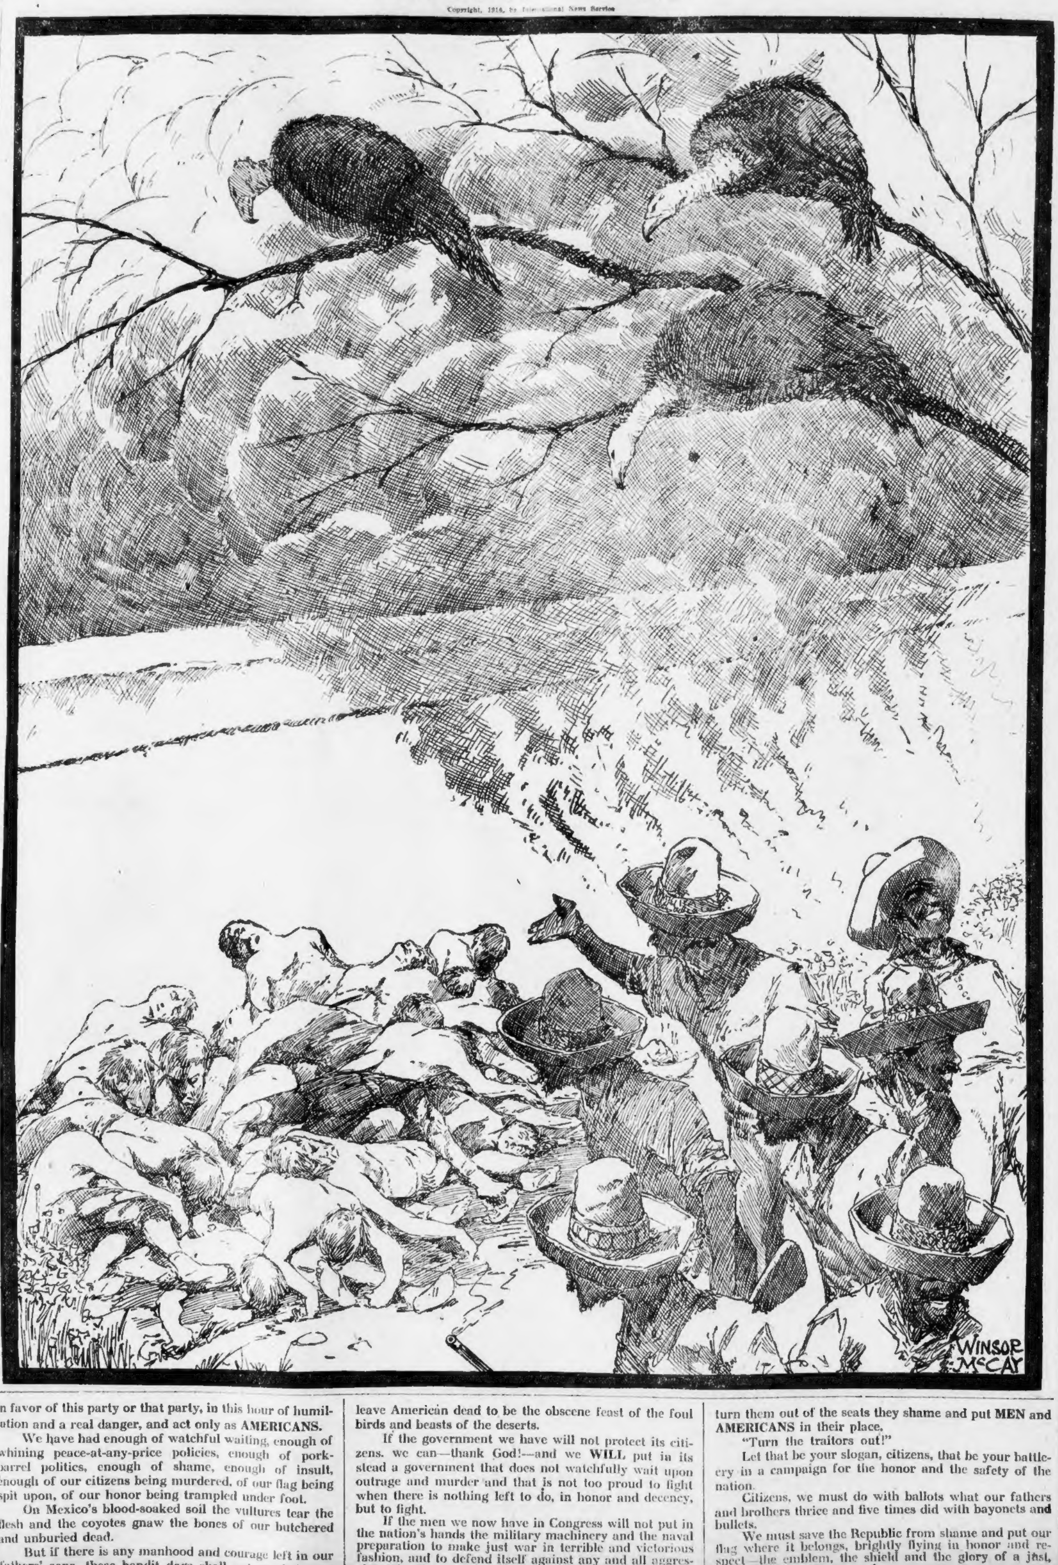
"WATCHFUL WAITING!"

Copyright, 1916, by International News Service



Citizens, You Must Protect the Republic with Your Ballots

WATCHFUL waiting is again in evidence.

Brought from where they fell in the Mexican chaparral, beneath the cruel blows and the stabs and shots of their tormentors, another ghastly company of mutilated corpses are waiting for their countrymen to avenge their blood upon their tormentors and murderers.

Wrought to a pitch of deadly anger, the countrymen of these tortured and butchered Americans are also waiting to see what their Great Nation will do to punish these murderers and torturers.

And in Washington a farcical and futile government, an incompetent and impotent administration IS DOING NOTHING.

It, too, is watchfully waiting.

Just as it has watchfully waited while other American men and women—yes, and little children, too—have been tortured, outraged and murdered by these Mexican savages.

Just as it has watchfully waited while every belligerent in Europe has kicked our citizens and our ships about, and spit contempt upon our flag and made our dignity and our sovereignty and all that pertains to our name a jeer and a scorn and a byword.

It is true at last.

We ARE too proud to fight.

This nation, born in the travail of war and amid the tumult of our brave fathers' battle for liberty, saved by arms in the hands of those fathers' sons, baptized and rechristened in the blood of heroic men and the tears of heroic women—this country of ours has become too proud to fight.

Too proud to fight!

God save the mark! Was ever a meaner sentiment couched in a single phrase?

Why, citizens, we have become contemptible in the eyes of all the world.

We have not so much respect as one of the petty republics over which we pose as the protector and guardian.

The policy of this Democratic administration, the policy of this Democratic majority in Congress, the policies of these Democratic factional leaders, all, all have brought us into the scorn and derision of the nations.

That is not all.

The policies of these Democratic politicians have brought us into DANGER.

Contempt is always the forerunner of aggression.

Everybody is ready to kick a coward.

Nations are only aggregations of individuals.

Cowardice is the surest invitation to be kicked which an individual can give.

Exactly the same thing is true of a nation.

A nation which is too weak or too cowardly to resent insult and outrage is sure to be insulted and outraged UNTIL A FIGHT IS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY TO PRESERVE ITS VERY EXISTENCE.

Then, if it is UNPREPARED TO FIGHT and unable to fight, it is BRUTALLY AND BLOODILY BEATEN AND PLUNDERED AS WELL.

See what these Democratic politicians are doing to endanger the land.

First they have invited contempt and permitted insult and outrage.

And now they propose to make us helpless to defend the land against worse outrages and aggressions to come.

They are planning and acting at this very moment to put this country in a position of contempt, of danger AND OF HELPLESSNESS.

There is Wilson, with his policy of watchful waiting.

There is Bryan, with his program of peace-at-any-price.

There is Kitchin, with his policy of prostituting patriotism to the pork barrel.

What are they doing, citizens, what are they doing—these cheap politicians, these patriots who are too proud to fight, these little Americans who put political pork and personal profits above preparedness and the nation's safety.

What ARE they doing, citizens?

Why, they are baring the nation to the insults of every power which chooses to insult it.

They are trying to make the nation helpless to repel the invasion of any power which may choose to invade it.

That is what THEY HAVE BEEN DOING.

That is what they PROPOSE TO KEEP ON DOING.

And what is the result, citizens?

Why, even a little, despicable, contemptible bandit nation like Mexico murders our citizens, drags our flag in the dirt, and spits at and defies this nation of ours with truculent insolence AND WITHOUT PUNISHMENT.

Citizens, what must we do with these misrepresentatives of the American people?

Why, we must turn them out of office and put bigger and better men in their places.

Since nothing can rouse them to courage, and neither reason nor appeal can move them to prepare their country against perils to come, we must put them back in private life, where they can do no more mischief to the nation.

We must throw partisanship and politics to the dogs and act, all together, not as Democrats, not as Republicans, not as Progressives, but as PATRIOTS AND AMERICANS.

The Progressive leaders have done a wise thing and a commendable thing in proposing to unite with the Republican party to do this great and absolutely necessary work of redeeming the country from Democratic partisan pork-barrel politics.

It is greatly to be hoped that Mr. Roosevelt will prove his sense and patriotism by laying aside his personal ambitions, as Mr. Taft has done, in order to forward and consummate this unity of AMERICAN object and action.

And, citizens, all of us should lay aside every personal prejudice in favor of this party or that party, in this hour of humiliation and a real danger, and act only as AMERICANS.

We have had enough of watchful waiting, enough of whining peace-at-any-price policies, enough of pork-barrel politics, enough of shame, enough of insult, enough of our citizens being murdered, of our flag being spit upon, of our honor being trampled under foot.

On Mexico's blood-soaked soil the vultures tear the flesh and the coyotes gnaw the bones of our butchered and unburied dead.

But if there is any manhood and courage left in our fathers' sons, these bandit dogs shall not much longer leave American dead to be the obscene feast of the foul birds and beasts of the deserts.

If the government we have will not protect its citizens, we can—thank God!—and we WILL put in its stead a government that does not watchfully wait upon outrage and murder and that is not too proud to fight when there is nothing left to do, in honor and decency, but to fight.

If the men we now have in Congress will not put in the nation's hands the military machinery and the naval preparation to make just war in terrible and victorious fashion, and to defend itself against any and all aggression, why, then—thank God, again!—we can and we WILL turn them out of the seats they shame and put MEN and AMERICANS in their place.

"Turn the traitors out!"

Let that be your slogan, citizens, that be your battle-cry in a campaign for the honor and the safety of the nation.

Citizens, we must do with ballots what our fathers and brothers thrice and five times did with bayonets and bullets.

We must save the Republic from shame and put our flag where it belongs, brightly flying in honor and respect—the emblem, the shield and the glory of a just, valorous and mighty people.
